

MASS PLANES TO WAR ON KENTUCKY MOONSHINERS

SEES WILSON LEADING PARTY PROGRESSIVES

Expect War President To Take Reins—Favors Flood Of Beer, Wines

Washington—Talk of a third party and "progressive" blocs has hitherto been confined to its effect on the Republican party but there is every reason to believe the "Progressive" movement will soon break out in the ranks of the Democratic party.

Woodrow Wilson's recent decision to take an active part in Democratic politics, or rather his rapid physical recuperation which has enabled his physicians to permit him to dig into his correspondence and see others is significant of a change in the mood of passive silence which has characterized the Democratic party during the recent outcry of the Republican "progressives" for a new deal in politics.

WILSON MIND ALERT

Mr. Wilson is not by any means the active man that he was when president. Probably he never will be. But he is physically stronger today than at any time since his collapse. His visitors have gone away with the impression that the mind of Woodrow Wilson is as alert today as it was when he was in the presidency and that his reasoning powers are as clear as they were in the days of war time chaos.

The former president naturally holds close to his heart the international situation but he is much too good a political tactician to ignore the wave of sentiment on domestic affairs which made itself manifest in the primaries and the elections a year ago. The Democratic party under his leadership prided itself on the name "progressive."

It is history repeating itself and if the "progressive" bloc of today is endeavoring to capture control of the Republican party now as it tried in 1912 and failing in that, it is to ignore the wave of sentiment on domestic affairs which made itself manifest in the primaries and the elections a year ago. The Democratic party under his leadership prided itself on the name "progressive."

FRANCE MAY ACT ALONE TO COLLECT DEBT

Washington Says Little About Allied Break But Not Inactive

By Associated Press
Paris — The French Cabinet will hold a special meeting Wednesday to hear Premier Poincaré's report of the London conference.

The feeling in official and parliamentary circles seems to be that London conference was a distinct disappointment and that the British cabinet's opposition to the use of coercion for securing the payment of reparations by Germany means that France must act alone.

Washington — It was said at the white house Tuesday that while all official comment would be withheld for the present, it could not be denied that the Washington government regarded the reparations difficulties brought to a head by the premier's council in London as one of the most acute problems now vexing Europe.

There was no attempt to disguise the concern of the United States in the apparent lack of a promise of an adjustment of Allied views as to Germany. That concern, it was indicated, extends to other European questions as well, and in all of these matters it was added, the Washington administration has not been "inactive."

U.S. Shivers; Colder Wave Is Forecast

Appleton today experienced the coldest morning of the present winter, thermometers registering from zero to 11 degrees below at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. The Schlader thermometer, "official" for Appleton, registered zero at 7 o'clock. The thermometer at the county workhouse, probably the coldest spot in Outagamie-co., registered 11 below at the same hour. In other places in the city temperatures of from zero to 6 below were reported.

The sharp wind belied the rising temperature reported by thermometers. At noon it registered about 6 degrees above zero at Schladers while at the workhouse it was 1 below.

The weatherman says Appleton is to shiver at least another day, continued cold and fair is his prediction.

Plumbers were kept on the jump for a few hours this morning thawing out frozen pipes. A few automobile radiators were frozen because owners failed to put enough alcohol in the machines to take care of the sharp drop in temperature.

Trains were running late this morning. The morning mail train did not arrive until about 9:30 and other trains are off schedule.

SEEK ALLEGED $30,500 BRIBE FOR DELANEY

Heirs Of Rum Merchant Sue Officials For Return Of Money

Milwaukee—Return of the $30,500 bribe which figured in the trial last year of Thomas A. Delaney, former federal prohibition director, on charges of violation of the Volstead act, was asked by Charles J. Roth, administrator for the estate of Joseph S. Guidice, who it was alleged, acted as intermediary in the figuring of which Joseph Guidice's name was charged with being the third member.

An order to show cause in federal court Saturday morning why the money and Liberty bonds which Guidice was alleged to have paid to Delaney for allowing Dudenhoefer to market illicit liquor should not be returned to the heirs of Guidice, was issued by Judge F. A. Geiger. United States District Attorney H. A. Sawyer, the department of justice and the treasury department are named defendants in the order.

Delaney was convicted upon the charge and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. He is now at liberty on bonds pending appeal before the United States Circuit court at Chicago. A second indictment, charging acceptance of bribes while in government service has not been prosecuted.

Guidice died a few days after an indictment charging him with conspiring to violate the Volstead act was returned by the federal grand jury, while Dudenhoefer was fined for his part in the rum ring.

The petition for the order to show cause contends that on Sept. 13, 1921, the money and bonds were given to George E. Golding, special treasury department agent, who conducted the investigation of the affair, by Guidice for use as evidence at the trial. Eight $500 and thirteen $1,000 Liberty bonds, twenty-six $100 bills and 218 $50 bills were given Golding, the petition of Roth declares.

BATTLE RUM VIOLATORS IN HILLS; 2 DIE

Agents Plan To Gather Army Of 500 For Attack—Posse Is Repulsed

By Associated Press
Covington, Ky. — Preparations to mass 500 prohibition agents, equipped with bombing plans and machine guns for an onslaught on the mountain stronghold of "Belt" Ballard's band of Menifee-co moonshiners, are being made by federal authorities, according to three officials who returned to Covington from Mount Sterling. They had been a part of a posse of 50 prohibition agents who were repulsed after two prohibition agents had been shot and killed in a three day siege of the moonshiners near Slate Creek.

Good Fellows Are Called To Help Poor Kids Of City

Wanamaker, Merchant, Leader, Dies

By Associated Press
Philadelphia—John Wanamaker, the world famous merchant and former postmaster general, died at his home here Tuesday. He had been confined there since early in November with a heavy cold contracted at his country estate "Lindenhurst" at Jenkintown, near here. He was 84. He was born in this city.

John Wanamaker led in the creation of the department store as an institution in American life. At the break of the civil war in 1861 when he began business for himself in a humble way in Philadelphia, retail merchandising in this country was in a disorganized state, and, in the opinion of the farsighted young merchant, it was suffering a rapid decline through practices that were then general. Aside from his ambition to make money, "my paramount purpose," said Mr. Wanamaker, "was to help save the mercantile profession from lowering its flag before other professions and occupations. There were in those days no fixed selling prices for goods. Businessmen demanded a thirteen-hour day from all their employees. Customers spent hours price-bagging with salesmen. Mr. Wanamaker was impressed with this waste of time and to eliminate it he became a pioneer in fixing a selling price for goods. It was one of the beginnings of many mercantile reforms which today are so generally followed that the present generation can scarcely find anywhere a trace of the old practices.

Mr. Wanamaker interested himself in many civic activities. He was the first salaried secretary in America of the Young Men's Christian association. In 1858, one of the founders of the Christian commission during the Civil war, and one of the organizers of the Centennial Exposition in 1876. He was known as a great believer in advertising, in newspaper advertising above all other varieties. He spent millions of dollars in it. One of the features of his advertising campaign was his development of "Store News Pages" which he led with an editorial of his own signature, invariably written by himself, to keep the public in touch with the policies of his business. His friends often saw him writing such an editorial on his way to the store in the morning, scribbling it on the back of an envelope or any odd scrap of paper he had in his pocket.

In political life Mr. Wanamaker was prominent as an independent Republican. Upon the election of Harrison, Mr. Wanamaker was invited to enter the cabinet, and although there was much criticism to the effect that a merchant was unfit for a cabinet position, Mr. Wanamaker became postmaster general and was acknowledged later by his critics to have worked many desirable reforms in the postal system. Mr. Wanamaker's life was insured for more than $3,000,000.

MITCHELL, U.S. CONSUL CHIEF AT MALTA; SHOT

Assailant Is Hunted After Attack—American Former Rough Rider, Author

By Associated Press
Valletta, Malta—Mason Mitchell, of New York, American consul on the island of Malta, was shot and wounded Tuesday near Balaclava. His assailant escaped but pursuit was immediately taken up. Mr. Mitchell was taken to a physician for treatment.

"I know nobody who could have done this," exclaimed Mr. Mitchell, as assistance came to him.

The consul is described as a person of ardent heart and a keen interest in the welfare of the island and its people. The attack upon him has aroused indignation.

Mason Mitchell has had a picturesque career as an actor, writer, traveler, soldier and diplomat. Born in Hamilton, N. Y., in 1853, he went on the stage at the age of 18 at the famous old Broadway theater in New York. He played with Edwin Booth and accompanied Mary Anderson during her theatrical engagements in Great Britain.

In the Spanish war he was a member of Roosevelt's Rough Riders and was wounded at the battle of San Juan.

He served as American consul at Zanzibar, China and Samoa. When the World War broke out he took over the British and French interests in German Samoa.

While consul at Cork in 1921 he narrowly escaped being shot.

Ford May Have To Pay For His Wife's Defense

By Associated Press
Detroit, Mich. — New J. Ford, wealthy Wayne-co farmer Tuesday faced the prospect that he would be required to pay for the defense of his wife, May B. Ford, who is charged with an attempt to hire a gunman to kill him.

Attorney for Mrs. Ford planned to enter a motion in circuit court that Ford advance $1,000 for preliminary attorney's fees and $3,000 for the expense of the defense should Mrs. Ford be held for trial at her examination Friday. Another motion contemplated was that Ford's divorce hearing be held immediately.

Financial support of the defense, the attorneys contended, is a husband's legal obligation, regardless of the unusual situation in the present case. Ford's first public statement relating to his domestic affairs was made public today.

"Women and death have been synonymous in my two marriage ventures," he said. "When my first wife became angry she threatened to take her own life and I was kept busy restraining her. My second wife threatened my life. I do not know which is worse. At any rate I'll be a single man from now on."

Hearings in Mrs. Ford's case was advanced on the court docket Monday after she elected to remain in jail rather than attempt to gain her freedom on a reduced bond.

"I am safe here but outside, I don't know what might be plotted against me," she was quoted.

FIRST ZERO WEATHER

Milwaukee—Zero was recorded for the first time this season at 8 a. m. Tuesday. The first time zero was recorded last winter was Dec. 21. Zero was the minimum temperature early Tuesday, the previous minimum having been 10 above last Saturday. The temperature probably will not rise above 8 and early Wednesday a minimum of four below zero will be recorded, according to Forecaster W. F. Stewart. This will be the lowest temperature of the cold wave, however, Mr. Stewart said. He said that the mercury would rise to about the 20 degree mark Wednesday.

2 BELOW AT GREEN BAY

Green Bay—A driving wind coming from over the bay, assisted by a temperature of 2 degrees below zero, inaugurated Green Bay's first real touch of winter Tuesday morning. Continued cold is promised by the United States weather bureau here.

OPEN HEARING ON SEYLER COMPANY

By Associated Press
Madison—Transactions which he declared to be of a somewhat questionable nature were involved in sales of property to be controlled by the Seyler Investment company, by Federal Robertson of Kansas City, a former attorney for the Seyler interests testified when called to the stand at the hearing before the securities division of the railroad commission on a complaint asking that the permit of the Seyler company to do business in Wisconsin be revoked.

On cross examination Mr. Robertson told of purported sales of oil and gas property in Kansas and Oklahoma, which he did not believe were in the interest of the company. Following objection by him he said that he resigned from directorship of the Seyler company and as attorney for it.

During the course of the hearing the activities of the various organizations will be brought out with a view to establishment of facts on which the commission will either revoke the right of the investment company to do further business in the state, or allow it to continue selling its stock.

Hundreds of investors over Wisconsin have invested several millions of dollars in the concern during the past three years, the commission reports.

SEEK $28,000 IN BOY SCOUT DRIVE

Regional Conference Seeks To Swell National Field Treasury

A campaign for $28,000 for the Boy Scouts of America in this region was launched as a result of the regional laymen's conference in Chicago, according to a report made by the Rev. Paul Keeler at the meeting of the executive committee of Appleton Boy Scout council at Hotel Northern on Monday evening. The campaign will not be general and the appeal for funds will be made only to those who can give $1,000, $500, or $100 as the minimum.

Lorimer Schiff, a wealthy friend of the Boy Scout movement, has given $5,000 to every boy scout region providing the region can raise a like sum. The money is to be used to place additional regional men in the field to further the movement.

ARREST CASHIER FOR ROBBING BANK

By Associated Press
Madison, Wis.—E. Lusk, cashier of the West Allis State bank, West Allis, Wis., was arrested Monday charged with embezzlement of $5,000 of the bank's funds, Marshall Cousins, state banking commissioner announced Tuesday. Lusk is reported to have confessed that he took the money by padding interest received and interest paid accounts.

Other officials of the institution are completely cleared of any possible complicity in the alleged embezzlement by the confession of the cashier, Cousins said. He also declared that the affairs of Mitchell Street State bank, of Milwaukee, with the same president as the West Allis Bank, were in no way affected by the banking department action.

Twelve cases of embezzlement in Wisconsin banks have been uncovered by the examination of the state banking commissioner within the past few months according to Mr. Cousins. He attributes the large number of embezzlement cases to the fact that bank conditions now are making it difficult for persons to cover irregularities.

VEETOED PROHIBITION BILL

Mr. Wilson it will be recalled vetoed the bill which would have extended war-time prohibition after the armistice but the drys were able to pass it in congress over his veto. He was bitterly assailed for this by the "dry" organizations. His record on the prohibition question has not been what the drys would like. He started out in New Jersey by insisting that it was a moral and not a political question and declared for local option. He agreed to war-time prohibition or rather the making of 2.75 beer chiefly because of the need for conserving the ingredients which were used in the manufacture of beer. And when the San Francisco convention of the Democratic party was in session, there is a well defined story that Mr. Wilson sent a letter to that city, despite Mr. Bryan's known attitude on prohibition and despite the feeling of so many Democrats that the issue had better be ignored in the platform altogether. The plank was never offered on Mr. Wilson's behalf.

Although there is nothing tangible to indicate that Mr. Wilson would commend a platform of light wine and beer to his colleagues in the Democratic party, it is much more likely that he will lean toward that side than toward the dry end of the controversy. Mr. Harding has committed himself and his party to the maintenance of the Volstead act. Mr. Wilson never favored that act and is free to advocate its repeal or modification.

REALTY BOARD REVOKES FIVE BROKERS LICENSES

By Associated Press
Madison, Wis.—The Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers' board revoked the licenses of five real estate brokers and denied applications of three persons for licenses, Winter Everett, secretary announced. The brokers whose licenses were revoked are: John Corombos of Racine, Joseph Mannino of Beloit, John H. Marx, Edmund J. Miesch and J. Milton Granger of Milwaukee.

FIGHT CRAZED MAN IN FOND DU LAC FIRE

Fond du Lac—Captured Monday following a desperate battle in which pitchforks, revolvers, clubs and broken glass figured as weapons, and during which a fire started causing $25,000 damage on the Stanchfield farm near here, a man believed to have escaped from an asylum, was lying at the point of death in a local hospital here Tuesday. The man arrested as a vagrant Sunday night, said he was Peter De Maylies. He escaped during the night. After his recapture late Monday, he said his name was Perry Hall and that he came from Iowa. Police here believe he has escaped from an asylum.

WHITE HOUSE GIVES PACKERS FREE HAND

Washington — President Harding and his advisers have decided that there is no obligation on the part of the administration to act on the application of Armour & Company to buy the assets of Morris & Company, another of the Chicago "big five" packers.

The decision on which Attorney General Daugherty and Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture concurred, was communicated to the senate late Tuesday by Secretary Wallace in response to a resolution of inquiry. The secretary said he had been studying the probable effects upon competition if the so-called Armour-Morris merger should become effective and added that "as yet no occasion seems to have arisen which requires formal action."

An opinion by Attorney General Daugherty also transmitted to the senate held that Secretary Wallace had power under the packer control act to investigate violations of the law should there be any in the proposed purchase of the Morris assets by Armour company.

ADOPT KELLER PLAN FOR DAUGHERTY IMPEACHMENT

Washington—After an hour and a half of wrangling the house judiciary committee voted Tuesday in executive session to proceed with the hearing of impeachment charges brought against Attorney General Daugherty by Representative Keller, Republican Minnesota, in the manner insisted upon by Mr. Keller.

FINISH VISITATION OF ALL RURAL SCHOOLS

Superintendent Florence S. Jenkins and Supervising Teachers Nellie McDermott and A. L. Collier have completed their first inspection of rural schools in record time. Every rural school in the county had been visited once up to Tuesday evening. A task that is unusual for this time of the year. Some schools were visited more than once.

Rural and state graded schools were busy this week preparing for their Christmas programs. Some of the schools will close on Saturday for the holiday vacation and reopen after New Year's. A few schools, however, will have but one week's vacation.

SUE TO RECOVER MONEY STOLEN FROM SAFETY BOXES

By Associated Press
Janesville, Wis.—Charging negligence in not providing proper burglary protection, 40 separate suits for damages aggregating $20,000 have been filed in the Jefferson County Circuit Court against the Farmers Bank of Sullivan. The plaintiffs are depositors of the bank who seek to recover for their losses when their safety deposit boxes were robbed May 19, 1921 when the bank was broken into. The suits said to be the first of their kind in Wisconsin will be tried at the February term it is expected. Directors of the bank, were examined at Watertown Monday.

JANESVILLE TO GET PARK

Janesville — Many years agitation for a city park was concluded here Monday when the city council authorized purchase of a 133 acre tract at the city limits, known as Riverside park for $25,000.

Watertown—Fighting with loss of life and injury to many persons, marked the inauguration of Gabriel Narutowicz, president of Poland.

This 'Cheese' Has Kick

Madison — Prohibition officers are led to believe that Dane-co cheese factories have in a number of cases been turned into moonshine establishments for the winter, by the discovery of large working stills in two of the factories within the past three days.

A raid late Monday on the Tash-co cheese factory near Mt. Horeh brought one 15 gallon still, 200 gallons of illicit liquor and a large amount of mash. A raid Saturday in the same vicinity netted two 50-gallon stills, 20 tons of rye mash and a large barrel of moonshine. Dry officers say that they are planning a general cleanup of the county.

Free Gov. Russell Of Seduction Charge

By Associated Press
Oxford, Miss. — A verdict for the defendant was returned Monday night in the suit for $10,000 damages instituted by Miss Frances Birkhead, stenographer, against Governor Le. M. Russell for damages based on charges of seduction and other allegations, she refused.

The jury in federal district court was asked to decide whether she had been damaged to the extent of the $10,000 she claimed, or whether Russell's reply, that the suit was the malicious work of political enemies, was to be believed.

Miss Birkhead was Russell's stenographer when he was lieutenant governor in 1918. She said that soon after she came to his office his attitude toward her became "more than friendly," and she fell in love with him. Her statement then alleged that, fearing she was to become a mother,

Attacked By Wolves

Marshfield, Wis. — After being attacked and almost thrown from a horse, a barber of this city, fought off a pack of wolves with a hunting knife after several of them had sunk their teeth into his legs, by killing one of the wolves and directing the appetites of the pack to the fallen animal. Ardenstrom then staggered several rods to his hunting lodge where he fell and lay unconscious until the next morning.

The governor characterized the whole case as "the most damnable blackmail conspiracy in the history of Mississippi."

He declared Miss Birkhead once before brought similar charges against a prominent citizen of Jackson, and that when her plot failed she helped the governor's political opponents develop the present "conspiracy."

MILWAUKEE ROAD GETS $10,000,000 FROM U. S.

By Associated Press
Washington — A loan of $10,000,000 from the government to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was authorized Tuesday by the interstate Commerce commission. The authorization is for a loan to run until March 1, 1930 and will enable the company to meet maturing indebtedness of a like amount which the government now holds against the road.

Christmas Trees MAY LINE AVENUE

Merchants Working On Plan For Elaborate Holiday Decorations

Collegeave will take on a festive appearance for Christmas shopping according to a plan formulated by merchants of the city to dress the street up for the occasion. Each lamp post from the college to the railroad tracks on West Collegeave will be decorated with a Christmas tree. Permission was granted to the merchants to use the lamp posts by the board of public works on Monday evening. A committee was working on Tuesday to raise the money to finance the decoration.

Permission also was granted certain residents for the public use of the several city ice rinks for a few Sundays in January. A part of the meeting was given over to the discussion of a policy whereby it will be possible to dispose of emergency matters without necessitating a call for a meeting of the entire board. All of the members present favored such a plan, the details of which are still to be worked out.

I SPIED TODAY

There has been a noticeable improvement in the quality of items submitted for publication in "I Spied Today" but there still is room for lots of improvement. Contributors are urged to gather all the facts essential to a complete news story. Surely the little effort required for that is amply compensated by a pair of tickets to the splendid programs offered by the Elite theatre. I spied items should be written as carefully, with much attention to essential details and facts, as other stories in the Post-Crescent.

"Rich Men's Wives," a splendid production, opens a three-day engagement at the Elite theatre today. Readers of the Post-Crescent are invited to be on the alert for news items which will entitle them to free tickets to this splendid production.

SHE TOOK IT BACK

We started for home after spending some time at the jewelry counter in the Golden Store on Saturday, and on our way I spied a silver chain hanging from the astrakhan cuff of the lady who was with me. She at once returned the chain, and the clerk at the counter, being busy, never knew of the incident.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Sunday afternoon while attending the matinee at the Elite, two college students, I judged them so by their conversation, were sitting in back of me. They constantly talked out loud, and complained about everything and everybody sitting around them.

Finally one said: "This show makes me so d— tired I've got a good notion to get up and go out."

A stout gentleman sitting in front of them turned to them and said: "You had better get out or keep still, or I'll put you out myself." He seemed to say this in a resigned, supreme manner during the remainder of the show.

TERRIBLE IF SHE HAD A CASE OF EGGS

Saturday morning I saw a lady, carrying a number of packages, coming out of Berry's store on the west side. She walked very carefully, just as she got to the corner of Spencer and Pine, she slipped, and fell. I happened to help her. She fell all right, but her packages were covered with eggs. "Well," she said, "how glad I am I bought only a half a dozen eggs."

MUST HAVE HAD TROUBLE

While walking towards the business district, on College ave. Sunday afternoon, I saw a large Mitchell service car towing a wrecked 1915 Oakland touring car.

The front of the Oakland was completely demolished. The wheels, springs, axle, in fact, all of the under parts of the car were missing.

The service car men had placed the "boards" of the Oakland on and in the box at the rear of their truck, and by tilting the rear of the Oakland upon its rear wheels had been successful in "bumping it in."

"DO TAKE CARE"

Saturday night a lady, a few feet ahead of me, suddenly slipped and fell on the sidewalk. Another lady, directly back of her, threw up her hands and said: "Oh, do take care!" and just then she also slipped and fell. They both sat there, looked at each other, then got up and walked away.

HASTE MAKES WASTE

While returning from Menasha a Ford coupe passed me going at a high speed on the icy roads. A few minutes later I found the car in a wire fence. No one was hurt. The car was slightly damaged.

ITS CAR IS JINXED

Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock, I spied a car coming from the west on Second ave. At the corner of Richmond and Second ave. it ran into a telephone pole, demolishing one back wheel. While waiting for a new wheel to be sent out from a garage, a car came from the north and crashed into it from the other side bending a fender and otherwise damaging the car. No one was hurt.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Sunday on my way home from Twelve Corners one and one half miles east of Battle's Corners, on truck line S, I spied a car that had slipped into the ditch. The result was a broken wheel. On investigating I found this car belonged to John Krueger, on the North end of Appleton st. The occupants of the car were Mr. and Mrs. Krueger and their five children. They escaped unhurt. They had been sitting and waiting in the car for a service man from Seymour for two hours. The mother and children were thoroughly chilled. I took Mr. Krueger and the five children home in my Ford Coupe while Mr. Krueger remained with the car.

IT ONLY LOOKED LIKE A MAN

At the forum held Sunday evening in the Lawrence memorial chapel I spied an incident that amused me very much. During the lecture the person in the seat ahead of me slowly took out a large, pink powder puff and calmly proceeded in the beautification of the complexion. The commotion next, and with the same precision the toilet was finished.

In typical cases we would, or might, call this person a flapper. In this case it was—a young man.

HAD CHANCE TO REST

While in Neenah Monday morning, I spied a horse that was hitched to a delivery sleigh, lying flat on his side on the slippery pavement in front of a grocery store on Main st. The horse lay there as though dead while the two men worked frantically to loosen it from the sleigh. At last their task was accomplished and slapping the horse, it arose. After being hitched to the sleigh it walked off with its load as though nothing had happened.

TELLS THIS ON HIMSELF

I spied myself doing something I have never done before, Sunday afternoon at 4:30. And I'm here to say that 'twas the kind of a thrill I don't care to repeat.

I was going south on Union st. in my Ford coupe. When about thirty-five feet north of the north walk on North st. I noticed an interurban street car coming east on North st. I wasn't going more than 15 miles an hour, but it was necessary for me to slam on the brakes if there was to be any chance of my missing that old street car.

Of course the usual thing happened when one applies brake to his car when it is traveling along on a sheet of ice like I was. I started to skid, and before I could release the hand brake, I swerved within inches of the corner telephone pole.

I then skidded in the other direction and hit the north side of the car at an angle of 45 degrees. My car had probably slowed down to about 8 miles an hour, but the impact was there and I bumped up against the steering wheel hard. I jumped out expecting to find my left fender ruined, my lamps broken and possibly some other damage, but no, my good strong front bumper had saved the day. Nothing was broken, but the bumper was jammed up against the left front tire. It was but a moment to pull it back in place.

The conductor took my name and address. I admitted I was in the wrong, and in a moment I was on my way, thanking my stars that I had gotten off so easily, and dead certain that I would get a set of non-skid chains the first thing Monday morning.

Mrs. Oscar Boldt is at St. Elizabeth hospital, where she submitted to an operation for appendicitis.

CALL GOOD FELLOWS TO ASSIST NEEDY

The donors sign their names so that an accurate record of Good Fellow contributions can be kept. Names of donors, not the amounts they give, will be printed each day in the Good Fellow Honor Roll.

The money will be deposited each day in an Appleton bank, subject only to the check of the Good Fellow Editor. The distribution to the needy, cooperating to make Christmas merry for Appleton's poor will be made shortly before the great holiday. An accurate account of every dollar contributed and distributed will be available to every Good Fellow.

Last year approximately $1,250 was contributed by the Good Fellows and every cent of it, and money too, was required for the good work of the noble women in the cooperating charities. A survey of the situation this year shows that there are at least as many, and probably more families in Appleton needing help than a year ago.

Your conscience should be your guide in determining the amount of your membership fee in the Good Fellow Club. A contribution of 25 cents from a person who cannot afford to give more will be just as welcome as $100 from those whose wealth permits donations of that size. You know how far a dollar will go toward supplying a family that has nothing. When you start buying for Christmas for your little family circle

SHEBOYGAN ROTARIANS HEAR TALK BY RASEY

Leo C. Rasey, principal of Appleton High school talked to the Rotary club of Sheboygan at its meeting on Monday. His subject was "This is the Law," based on the service-above-self principle of the club.

While in Sheboygan, Mr. Rasey visited the high school building recently erected. He spent more than five hours in the building and had a chance to see every detail of the equipment and construction of the building. The auditorium and gymnasium are not completed, but school sessions are being held in the other portions. The former high school has been taken over by the vocational school.

BACHMAN IS "ASSESSED" FOR ALMOST $600,000

Fred Bachman, Appleton's city treasurer, is worth to the city of Appleton and to the state and county nearly $600,000, in addition to the services he renders, according to the valuation that has been placed upon him. Incidentally, the money he will have to collect from Appleton taxpayers for city, county and state taxes has something to do with his assessed valuation. He is to be bonded for $457,044.36 for the handling of county and state taxes, the amount of the bonds being just twice the size of the tax bill. In addition, he is bonded for 100,000 for the handling of city taxes.

STATE TO ADD 2,500 MILES OF NEW ROADS

Many Counties Beginning To Emulate Example Of Out-
agamie Co

Building of good roads no longer is a hobby of a few Wisconsin counties. The value of paved highways, which was demonstrated so effectively for the entire state here several years ago, now is appreciated everywhere with the result that approximately 2,500 miles of new roads will be constructed in the coming year.

It is possible that more than $17,000,000 will be spent for this work. Its accomplishment will mean that Wisconsin will become nationally famous as a state for good roads.

NOW HAS MUCH
This state now has 7,500 miles of state trunk highways, patrolled by 1,000 men, and 15,000 miles of county trunk highways, of which 9,600 miles are under patrol maintenance.

Something like 2,500 more miles are planned for next year. The state's share of the general highway program being estimated at approximately $10,000,000.

The bond issue counties will do $7,000,000 worth of road work, as against $9,000,000 this year. These counties include Brown, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Dodge, Ozaukee, Racine, Waukesha, Walworth, Jefferson, Rock and Green.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS
Taking into account Jefferson county's program, the concrete highway will be completed from Milwaukee to Dane county at a point near Waterloo.

Monroe and Green will finish a concrete roadway up to the Dane county line.

The hard surface highway from Beloit to Milwaukee will be finished during the year.

Over in Racine and Kenosha counties work will be pushed on the Kilbourn road near artery between Milwaukee and Chicago.

Due to difficulties in getting materials, 15 miles of concrete construction planned for this year was held over till next year. Conditions have become much better.

The legislature will settle on a revenue raising policy, and like every other dollar and cents question running into budget figures this one will be considered and debated at length. There are available three sources of revenue for highway construction, income surtaxes, general property tax or placing a larger share of the expense on motor vehicles.

From the legislative committee of Wisconsin county boards comes the suggestion that $10,000,000 instead of $4,000,000 should be raised on motor vehicles. The state has not gone in to any great extent for surtaxes, and the bill is away from adding to the property tax, so it is easy to forecast that financing highways will turn on the motor vehicle phase of it.

GOOD ROAD FUNDS
First of all, the legislative committee on highways, of which Senator George Staudenmayer, Portage, is mentioned for chairman, will tackle the manner in which funds will be raised for good roads, then the joint committee of finance will take it up and settle on a recommendation to the legislature itself.

Either Senator Henry Huber, Stoughton, or Senator H. J. Severson, Iowa, will probably get the chairmanship of the finance committee. Neither Huber nor Severson has given out an expression touching on the motor vehicle tax question and there will be no line on the attitude of the finance committee until the committee members have been named.

Broadly speaking, it is known the administration believes there should be some readjustment of financing highway construction. More that that, it is believed the administration will lean toward placing a larger share on motor vehicles.

Highway construction is getting more and more out of the local realm, it is essentially state and federal in its complexion with the trunk line system as the big object.

There will be a wide range of views here as to the most equitable plan of financing highways, but without any great danger of a serious setback to continued construction.

Wisconsin is committed to a policy of good roads. No recent legislature has shown a disposition to turn from this policy.

RADIO PATTERN

Plans for unifying the call systems of the world are being discussed by amateur organizations of the chief countries.

This movement is the result of an effort to clear up the existing confusion when one amateur calls another. At present, four different interpretations may be placed on a call between amateurs in America.

With the advent of trans-Atlantic amateur communication, this confusion is looked upon with greater concern. For this reason, British, French and American amateur societies have been trying to devise a call system that would include amateurs of all countries with no chance of misinterpretation. Many plans have been offered.

SUGGESTED SYSTEM
One, out of which the final system may come, is suggested by the French amateur society and elaborated by the officials of the American Radio Relay league. This is the plan by which an amateur in one country calling one in another country would replace the letters "de," as they are used now, by even his call and that of the amateur allied, with the initial of his country, instead of that of the other country concerned.

For example, 2AVB in the United

Bear Creek—Near this village is a quiet, unassuming mother whose praises have been unsung, yet because of the fact that she has 337 living descendants she might be termed the greatest mother in the United States. Four generations are included in her mighty family.

This mother to 11, grandmother to 117, great-grandmother to 190 and great-great-grandmother to 19, is Mrs. Sarah Greenier, 83, one of the earliest residents of the county.

Renown in this respect also is shared by Mrs. Mary Jane Monty, one of Mrs. Greenier's daughters, who has 81 descendants.

Prominence frequently is given persons who possess 50 or 60 descendants, but both Mrs. Greenier and Mrs. Monty merely smile when this count is referred to as representing a large family.

WAS PIONEER
Mrs. Greenier has lived a life that had its share of pioneering and hardships. Her maiden name was Sarah Tuft and she was born of Scotch parents at Grande Mattee, Canada, Feb. 2, 1834. She was married on Nov. 2, 1853, or 69 years ago, to Paul Brisco. The ceremony occurred in a little village on Lake Champlain, and the couple started west into the United States during the following spring to seek their fortune.

The long pilgrimage in the days when travel facilities to Wisconsin were meager brought the pair to Fond du Lac. They resided there until 1870, when they came to Outagamie Co. They located on a farm at Maple Creek where they worked hard to bring up their family.

Mr. Brisco met an accidental death May 14, 1877. Several years later Mrs. Brisco was married to Oliver Greenier of Northport, who died a few years later.

SPINS HER YARN
An example of how Mrs. Greenier managed to bring up her children successfully was shown when her home was visited by a newspaper person. Although almost 90, she was seated at a spinning wheel completing her fourth fleece of wool this fall. She is keenly alert and enjoys good health. She visits her children frequently and is a regular attendant at church. Mrs. Greenier makes her

States is calling SDW in France. He would sign his call: "SDW to 2AVB."

Thus only one correct interpretation could be placed on this call and no confusion would result. At the same time, every amateur would retain his present call, necessitating no expense or trouble in changing the system.

All that would be needed, say officials of the A. R. R. L., would be consent of the various governments to the change, as the use of "de" between calls is prescribed by international law.

EXPLAIN FREAK TERMS
British amateurs who have succeeded in listening in on American sets have been puzzled by some of the queer terms used in the transmission. The American Radio Relay league through its official organ QST, explains these terms as follows:

73—This is a signal taken into radio from the American Morse code, and means "best regards."

DX—"Distance," more exactly, long distance.

OM—"Old Man," the common amateur term of fellowship. Feminine is "OW."

FB—"Fine Business," meaning "that's fine news, that's great," etc.

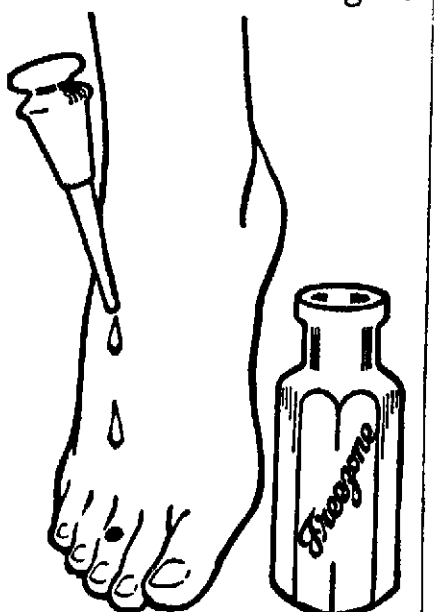

ND—"Nothing Doing," commonly used in testing, to mean that communication is too poor to make further attempt justified.

State Leaders In Meeting At Oshkosh Hint At Modified Law

D. P. French was in Oshkosh Monday where he attended the annual field day of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league. Monday assertions were made by several of the speakers that an amendment to the Severson prohibition enforcement statute to permit beer and wine, would be passed by the legislature, its final enactment to be dependent upon ratification by the people by referendum.

They stated that "wets" themselves admit that unless congress changes the Volstead act a change in the Wisconsin law would not give any relief to their followers. They add if the Volstead act is changed to allow an increased per cent of alcohol in non-intoxicating liquor, Wisconsin would come under that action, since the Severson law provides that the percentage fixed at any time for the national prohibition law shall automatically become the per cent fixed by the state law.

Merciless Neuritis

Imps of Hades armed with red-hot pitchforks could scarcely inflict more cruel agonizing torture than that endured by many sufferers from neuritis.

The sharp stabbing pains caused by this disease are usually centered about the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back or along the thigh and leg in the region of the sciatic nerve.

Sometimes they move from one part to another, sending out lightning jabs which produce untold misery.

If you want prompt relief, apply Tylenol over the part that hurts and the pain should disappear.

Tylenol is absorbed through the pores of the skin and has a soothing, healing effect upon the inflamed, diseased nerves. Contains no "dope," is absolutely harmless. Price $1 at Schmitz Bros. Co. and leading drug stores everywhere. Tylenol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 100 Sutter St., San Francisco, adv.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap, but has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

"Enough forces are operating," says Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his annual report, "to make us cautious in estimating the prospects for the future, and take care lest we build on a false basis. Business in this country cannot progress indefinitely without its foreign markets, and undue expansion now, with rising costs and artificial values, inevitably sows the seeds of reaction and make more difficult the re-establishment of normal relationship abroad."

Whoever masters the full significance of this admonition will have a safe guide for business management all through 1923, and he will be able to forecast the commercial trend for several years in the future. These lines are prophecy based on fundamental laws of trade.

Business will be brisk all of next year, or, at least, during more than three-fourths of the year. Yet, Mr. Mellon says, conditions necessitate caution, and he calls particular attention to the danger of "rising costs and artificial values," constituting "undue expansion now." He goes on to say, after first declaring we absolutely need foreign trade, that inflation will "make more difficult the re-establishment of normal relationships abroad."

Mr. Mellon means that other nations, with whom we shall have to trade and compete, will have low costs and prices with high values, as against our high costs and prices with low values, and the disparity would be detrimental to us if we failed to exercise caution. The secretary holds that permanent prosperity is linked with reasonable prices and substantial foreign commerce.

HITTING THE NEAR EAST NAILED

Reports from Lausanne signify that practically all nations are in accord with the policy advanced by the United States in favor of the open door in the Near east. Quite evidently, this country's observers said what everybody had in mind and was hoping would be said. The United States did exactly right in declaring for equal economic opportunity. The trouble in the Near east and the friction among the allied powers is largely due to international rivalry for advantages.

Great Britain, France, Italy and other nations have been seeking plums in the Near east, and so has Turkey. They have been suspicious of one another, and, perhaps, have been conspiring against one another.

These inter-racial and inter-religious problems of the Near east will be more easily settled with the causes of rivalry and suspicion removed. The allied powers will find a means of accord and concerted action again.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION CHANGES

It is unfortunate that the proposal for the direct election of the president of the United States is combined with another proposal, for direct nomination of the president.

The two have no necessary connection. Direct election in this case means doing away with the "electoral college," which serves no useful purpose and yet has a latent capacity for harm because of its technical authority. Direct nomination means doing away with the convention system of nominating presidential candidates, and that seems more questionable.

Direct primaries have worked well in local elections, and as a general thing, perhaps, in state and congressional elections. Yet even there they have not accomplished all that was expected of them. While eliminating old evils of bossism, they are held to have introduced new evils—mediocrity, irresponsibility and expense.

If there is any substance in these charges against the direct primary, as it now exists, there is ground for more serious objection against extending this form of nomination to the presidency.

CONQUERING DEATH

The figures for the last year's death rate in the United States brighten a somewhat gloomy world. Only 11.6 people died out of every 1,000. The year before, which was considered a good, healthful year, the death rate was 13.1 per 1,000. In 1910 it was 15 per 1,000, and in 1900 it was 17.6. These few figures alone tell a story of progress in health such as perhaps no nation ever made before.

Particularly remarkable is the record of New York city. That city with all its handicaps of unfavorable living conditions and crowding, beat the national record, with only 11.2 deaths per 1,000. Fifty years ago New York's death rate was 33.7 per 1,000, and not abnormal for that time. There is a saving of two-thirds, by the progress of half a century.

The whole nation shares the credit. Among states, Vermont has the poorest record, with a death rate of 14 for last year. Yet that is no worse than the average national rate for the last decade, and would have been very creditable ten years ago.

A MIGRATION CHECKED

The 200,000 Greeks in Constantinople are neither to be evicted nor massacred. The United States and the allies have warned Turkey to this effect. There is little doubt the Turk will catch the note of authority and that this new outrage will be halted if the allies remain firm.

Tremendous upheavals of population following military victory are relics of barbarism which have no place in a world advancing toward civilization. Even when their cruelty is camouflaged under pretense of peaceful exchange, as was proposed in this case, they involve untold disorder, loss and desolation.

In moving to prevent further horrors of the kind the western nations take the only possible stand. Later not only the Greeks but the Turks will thank them. And it is about time this phase of the Near eastern problem began to receive consideration.

THOSE GERMAN ARMS

If anybody outside of Germany knows what the situation is regarding the possession of contraband arms by the Germans, it should be Gen. Francis Bingham, chief of the allies' military control commission. From his office in Berlin, with a corps of capable inspectors under him, he ought to command the necessary information.

Gen. Bingham says that while there are, no doubt, small arms and ammunition hidden in Germany, such stores are "insignificant compared with the stocks destroyed," and adds: "My personal opinion is that Germany really has been combed of all war supplies worth mentioning."

This ought to settle the matter for the present so far as Americans are concerned, though it doubtless will have little weight with M. Clemenceau and the French.

HE REPRESENTS ROYAL MAJESTY

Tim Healy, fighting home ruler, lands in Ireland as governor general, being the personal representative of his imperial majesty, King George. His first utterance is a caution to Americans against supporting revolutionaries who are warring against the new Irish Free State. He is greeted cordially by President William Cosgrave and Minister of Defense Richard Mulcahy.

Healy's loyalty to his native land cannot be questioned. Neither can his political acumen be doubted. The new government is launched with evidences of good faith, and it has a fair start. Healy's first statement as to the republicans denotes what the joint British and Irish policy will do.

HUSBAND'S HOLIDAYS

Vice-Chancellor Bentley of New Jersey declares that husbands are entitled to holidays; that they should have Saturday afternoons off and even a few evenings. Just what does he mean? While it is true that every man, even a married man, is entitled to some time for himself, is there any reason for regarding married life as a form of hard labor that calls for so many hours' rest each week? It is a rank marriage as a form of punishment for the crime of having fallen too desperately in love, but as one to be mitigated by so many evenings on which the victim is let out on parole.

But what about the wife? Does the learned vice-chancellor believe that wives should have an afternoon and so many evenings off? And what is it to happen if their afternoons and evenings are not the same as their husbands? There are only seven evenings in a week. Surely the children are entitled to some of the joint care of their parents. But perhaps the vice-chancellor thinks that when the husband goes off on a Saturday afternoon and so many evenings it will be holiday enough for the woman that must keep all the time on her job. More man-made laws for men only.—SAN FRANCISCO BULLETIN.

BRONCHITIS AND BUGOLOGY

The doctor experienced the thrill of his patient's gratitude in Grampy's case. The patient began to feel it along about the tenth or twelfth dose of the autogenous bacterin. The cough had by that time materially diminished in frequency and severity so that the patient had quite comfortable nights for the first time in many winters. The expectoration decreased in quantity, and what aroused Grampy's sense of gratitude particularly was the fact that he began to feel more energetic than he had in months, even the months he had been following the hygienic life.

Whether all this, particularly the feeling of greater well being and renewed strength, could be attributed to the effect of the "vaccine" treatment was of course uncertain, but it was certainly certain that the doctor himself would throw no cold water on Grampy's enthusiasm for the treatment. Too often Grampy had been the wet blanket himself. At the same time the doctor made his private reservation to the effect that, possibly, the relief of the bronchitis, from which the patient had suffered for many winters, gave Grampy a new interest and enthusiasm in life and this mental state in itself tended to stimulate his energies as a whole.

From this time on the patient actually anticipated his weekly or bi-weekly injections of the bacterin, and became an ardent advocate of "bugology." He button holed acquaintances who happened to have bronchial trouble and told them they needed some "bug" treatment—and they concluded Grampy was getting "buggy" himself.

In all, the doctor administered eighteen hypodermic doses of the "vaccine" each of the later doses containing about double the number of killed Pneumococci and Staphylococci in the preceding dose, and by that time Grampy's sole worry seemed to be that he might get the "vaccine habit"—he had now begun to experience immediate bracing effects from each dose, he averred, and the doctor let him rave.

The nineteenth dose still reposes in its little glass ampule in Grampy's waistcoat pocket, a charm talisman or curio, if not exactly a relic, which he carries, he says, to ward off a relapse.

As for Grampy's bronchitis, two winters have passed and he has quite forgotten how to cough. You may find him out wallowing a ball around the pasture lot any fine day now, and on many a rainy, drizzly or cold day too, when a lot of younger players stay off the links. He says he will walk wide rings around Weston—when he gets old enough. He advises his friends to forget this catching cold foolishness and get out in the air.

GREEK SLAYINGS IF MADE GENERAL PRACTICE WOULD SOON END WARS

The shooting, following court martial, of five former cabinet ministers and a general for high treason because they were held responsible for the crushing of the Greek armies by the Turks comes in for widespread condemnation throughout the United States. Editors, however, see in the action a method to prevent wars pointing out that if such punishment was invariably to be the penalty of failure to win complete victory, leaders would think long before stirring up hostilities.

"The Greek method may be drastic and have few precedents," suggests the Elmira STAR GAZETTE, "but there is no question that it will have weight with future Greek Premiers and cabinet officers who entertain ideas of conquest. Greece has found one way to curb war, whether it meets with the approval of the rest of the world or not." This point of view finds no sympathy with the Washington STAR which asserts that "civilization goes back a step when a nation turns in rage against its own people, and slays them for their blunders." A London, however, is called by the Newark NEWS to the fact that "it was for high treason not failure, that the Greek war heads were tried. It is always a shock to governments to see the political representatives of other countries severely punished although Lloyd George was ready enough to 'hang the Kaiser' in an election campaign. Whether the Greek executions were warranted all depends upon the truth of the allegations against the officials, and this is not ascertainable at present in this country, if anywhere." The Philadelphia BULLETIN feels that "unhappy Greece has again been ill served by a government entrusted with power in a crisis."

The executions were "the penalty of a tragic failure," the New Orleans ITEM points out in recalling many similar episodes of history and then inquires whether "after all, are the five former cabinet ministers and the one general, dead by bullets in Athens, any more dead than any equal number Armenian, or Greek villagers, slaughtered outside Smyrna? There is a singular sameness about corpse flesh, whether it tumbles down from the seats of the mighty, or rots in a stable doorway." Although "the humanitarian spirit of the twentieth century does not sanction political executions," the Cleveland FLAX DEALER suggests that "as must be admitted by all who are conversant with the course of recent Hellenic history, Gounaris and his associates were unquestionably guilty of the offenses charged against them, and their punishment was literally in accord with the laws of civilized nations. So Greece kills her foremost citizens and at the same time repudiates her only remaining advocate among the great powers. But the eminence of Gounaris had brought only suffering to the Greek people while the friendship of Great Britain has proved tragically false to useless."

It is the opinion of the Utica OBSERVER DISPATCH that the execution of Gounaris "will not end terrorism still prevails in Greece" while the Albany NEWS is convinced that Greece "has not added to her standing among nations" as a result. Contending that you "can't blame Allah for this," the Rockford REPUBLICAN insists that "Greece stands before all nations pleading a brotherhood of Christ and hiding bloody hands. Before starting any more crusades against the borders of Allah why not clean up the corners of 'Christendom'?" In addition to the immediate effect, the Minneapolis JOURNAL suggests that "the Athens government stands to lose materially at Lausanne, and after, just as it loses morally by its savage violence." Resentment over failure was the compelling motive for inflicting the penalties, the Dallas JOURNAL thinks, and it suggests that "a country which permitted a Constantine to go unscathed should resort to wholesale slaughter of men who had served the Constantine regime suggests a state of mind that augurs evil days for her future."

"Ministers are deposed, they are not placed before a firing squad," argues the New Orleans TIMES PICAYUNE in pointing out that there might have been an excuse if the executions had been committed during a revolutionary insurrection, but this is not the case. The official act of Greece will be charged before the bar of civilization. Mexico's execution of Maximilian was less reprehensible. The Kansas CITY JOURNAL also holds that "the time has not come in civilized nations when defeat alone is treason. The time must come when Greece, though frenzied by an understandable passion of despair and rage, must realize that by these unwarranted official murders she has placed herself, temporarily, beyond the pale of the civilization of this day." It is the opinion of the St. Louis POST DISPATCH that "there is only one redeeming feature in the Greek revival of barbarous politics. This is the execution of leaders who bring a disastrous war of aggression on their country. If that rule were followed in all countries war would be unpopular. There would be no wars. We would suggest an amendment to the rule of death for war-makers the execution of war profiteers. Under such a rule the horizon of the world would be brightened, with the dawn of world peace. The League of Nations to guarantee peace would be a success." It was the "felony of failure," which was punished according to the Lynchburg NEWS, and "Greece has not helped

Briton Led World Fight On Slavery

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

On crooked, narrow High-st of Hull, Yorkshire, stands a house in which the history of Great Britain and the history of the United States of America meet, in an event which involved the life and liberty of the native peoples of Central Africa and formed one of the most important accomplishments of the nineteenth century.

Here William Wilberforce was born in 1759. A century and a half ago the garden behind the house ran down to the river's edge and fresh breezes from the ocean swept over the country town. Almost all of his childhood was spent here, but for several years he was under the religious influences of his uncle in London. He passed through public school and college much as other young men of his day did. Indeed, Wilberforce himself claimed that he entered the house of commons with his own distinction as his darling object. This was without doubt too great self-depreciation, for he was already marked by his sympathy and his qualities as a possible champion of the abolition cause. At 14 he had written letters on the slave trade to the daily journals and his interest grew year by year.

DIFFICULTIES TREMENDOUS

It was Lady Middleton who prevailed upon her husband, Sir Charles, to write to Wilberforce and propose that he navigate the abolition question through the houses of parliament. He weighed well the difficulties of the undertaking. They were tremendous. Against abolition were pitted the vast moneyed interest of the commercial world; the mercantile marine; the cotton, sugar, and kindred industries. Added to these were the inertia and the ignorance of the public as a whole. Wilberforce undertook the task, for he felt that it was the will of God that he should make this his life work.

The first step in the regulation of the slave trade was taken in parliament on May 9, 1788, when Pitt, in the absence of Wilberforce, moved a resolution binding the house to consider the circumstances of the slave trade early in the following session. Then commenced the argument that dogged all the progressive steps of the abolitionists. Commercial ruin and slave insurrection were predicted. In spite of this, an alleviating measure was passed in July. It limited the number of slaves to be carried on the slave ships.

OPPOSITION WAS FIERCE

It was opposed fiercely by the slave merchants who declared that such a measure would restrict the trade.

The main question came before the house on May 12, 1789, and Wilberforce spoke at great length. Delay, however, followed delay and for four years examinations of witnesses were gone through. In April, 1794, a bill was passed authorizing gradual abolition to commence Jan. 1, 1795.

From 1797 to 1799 there were repeated defeats; still Wilberforce was convinced that all the time the cause was gaining ground. Between 1798 and the carrying of the abolition bill in 1807 Wilberforce was almost continuously at work, striving to get measures for immediate mitigation of slavery passed but these were as strenuously opposed as total abolition itself. In 1806 with the end of Pitt's career, a new government was formed which was in sympathy with the movement and the foreign slave bill was carried.

her standing among nations as a result." This also is the view of the Buffalo TIMES which says the incident "reminds one of the execution by the English, long ago, of Admiral Byng because he failed to relieve a threatened fortress. History has vindicated Byng's memory."

"The Turk is the only being to benefit from the execution," says the Roanoke WORLD NEWS. "In the contemplation of them Smyrna is forgotten. Athens, that city which has given to the world so much that is high and noble in the realm of mind, is today a synonym for murder and red revolution. Greece is sinking about among the nations of the world with foul, blood-dripping hands. And it will take a long time to be forgiven."

While the "grief with public sentiment," in the opinion of the Danville REGISTER and "they are vicarious sacrifices to a resentment and a vengefulness which had to be appeased through legal processes in order to avert a sanguinary revolution." While, "according to western ideas the accused should have been tried in a civil court" the New York TRIBUNE holds that "these men unquestionably did the real Greece an unpardonable wrong. If their proven acts amounted to treason the Greek people were clearly within their rights in exacting the supreme penalty." While the "grief with public sentiment," in the opinion of the Danville REGISTER and "they are vicarious sacrifices to a resentment and a vengefulness which had to be appeased through legal processes in order to avert a sanguinary revolution." If their proven acts amounted to treason the Greek people were clearly within their rights in exacting the supreme penalty."

Which many Greeks regard their nation's present situation is easily imagined," the New York POST believes "that the situation will be only worse by such deeds." On the other hand the Springfield REPUBLICAN feels that the "methods may be drastic but perhaps the west is too easy going in not holding its politicians to stricter responsibility for their acts." Inasmuch, however, as "public opinion was behind Constantine and these ministers," the Brooklyn EAGLE argues that "the British Government does well to sever relations with Greece as a protest against a manifestation of vindictive savagery which is without a parallel in modern times."

PROBLEMS OF LEADERSHIP IN GERMANY

Christiania—Writing in the AFT-ENBLAD, Erich Lilienthal discusses the needs and possibilities of a German leader. He says:

"Germany is longing for a leader but nobody knows where he is to come from. The most extreme monarchists who absolutely want a Kaiser again, would crown any artillery lieutenant if he had any resemblance to Napoleon. Even in these desperate days everybody feels that there is still a tremendous source of strength in the people. The man who understood how to make use of this might set himself the highest political aims."

"In spite of the wave of materialism which is going through the people or perhaps just for that reason, the leader which Germany is looking for must be something of a hero. The old emblems and symbols of the Kaiser time have faded away and become worthless by abuse and decay. The many appeals to the people to form a united front at last in these desperate times, find no response. It is felt that behind these words and the well-known names there is always one of the old or new clique which will do no better but only want to attain power. A new national idea is wanted and a man who personifies it. In 1918 none of the German princes did this and consequently they fell."

"The German revolution was no proper antidynastic movement. When it broke out there were not many republicans. At the time when Scheidemann proclaimed the Republic from the steps of the Reichstag, the socialists were not yet sure whether they could risk it. It was thought that the Crown Prince's minor son would become Kaiser under a Regent. As the two Hohenzollerns had fled to Holland, nobody in Germany thought of keeping the other princes. They fell as victims of a certain political symmetry, it might almost be said as victims of German order. During the armistice negotiations the one thought was for peace and food. The starving people cared nothing for the dynasties, which for centuries had played a decisive part in the wielding of Germany's destiny. The German revolution was not an outburst of passionate hatred but simply a desperate 'so far, but no further.'"

"The German monarchs had always something patriarchal about them. They were fathers of the people and called themselves so. The highest father in the land, the Kaiser, had left his children in the lurch. It was felt like this even by his most faithful followers. It is true, people tried to awaken sentiment for the 'poor banished Kaiser in Doorn,' but since his engagement was announced he lost the sympathy also of his last Potsdam friends. Wilhelm II will never again go through Brandenburg Thor as Kaiser."

"The Crown Prince is now 40 years old. He has made many political blunders, but in contrast to the Kaiser, he has many personal friends. He has the impression as if he was trying to be clear about himself and his position to the world. The people do not interest themselves much for the other Hohenzollern princes."

"The only part of Germany where the idea of a monarchy and the leadership problem have any connection with each other is in Upper Bavaria. The Wittelsbach dynasty was always popular in spite of its stiff Court ceremony, and was very democratic in intercourse with the people. Meanwhile there are only some hundred thousand Upper Bavarians but millions of Germans there may be of importance because of the great Austro-Bavarian and South German problem can easily depend on the few men who form the Bavarian royalist party."

"Perhaps just because there were no great personalities among the

Q. How are golf handicaps determined? K. D.

A. Golf handicaps are fixed by the greens committees of clubs and the usual basis for handicapping except for players capable of playing a standard 18-hole course in 80 or better, is to add four to the par of the course and subtract the sum from the average of the three best scores the player has made on the course.

Q. What does it cost on an average to haul freight by truck? K. D. G.

A. Cost of transporting freight by truck is affected by so many varying conditions that an average rate is difficult to arrive at. However, the cost per ton mile in this country is estimated at 25 cents, while abroad the cost has been estimated at 12 cents, under favorable conditions.

Q. Did Edison invent the graphophone? L. G. J.

A. The graphophone, which is similar in principle to the Edison phonograph, was invented jointly by C. A. Bell and Charles S. Tainter.

Q. How long have there been trade unions in England? I. R. H.

A. Trade unions were legalized in England in 1824, but such organizations or combinations of wage earners for the purpose of maintaining or improving the condition of their employment have existed continuously from the latter part of the 17th Century. The earliest actual record of such a combination is that of the woolen workers of the southwest of England, which is mentioned as existing in 1700 and frequently referred to in Devonshire, Somerset, Wiltshire, and Gloucestershire throughout the 18th Century. The London tailors can be shown to have been in continuous combination from at least 1720, when an Act of Parliament was passed to restrain them.

German princes, it has been so easy for them to become private persons.

"They belong now to the few well-to-do private people in Germany and as such, lead a quite comfortable life in the old residences. Some of them are capable farmers, like the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, others have invested their money in industry or in banks. The Grand Duke of Hesse attends the school for philosophy in Darmstadt. A recent experience of the Duke of Oldenburg was very characteristic. The villagers near his farm could not believe whom they should elect Mayor. So they went to the Grand Duke to consult with him. After a long discussion one old peasant proposed the Grand Duke himself, giving as a reason that 'it would be good for the Grand Duke to begin little by little to reign again.'"

"The German members of parliament are speaking trumpets for wishes and interests. They reflect what is taking place in the nation's life. They are unable to build up the future. They have been obliged to give up this part to the great industrialists and finance men. The country's economic and political strength is concentrated round them. They stand at the rudder and it is due to them that the German ship has not yet been stranded. They are strong and intelligent, and always manage to bring Germany again into the world's traffic. They are materialists, and untiring workers. The private life of most of them is much more economical than that of their subordinates."

Miss Vada Masden Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"Eczema broke out in a sort of blister on the tip of my finger. It soon spread over my entire fingers and itched and burned dreadfully. Many times in the night I would wake up and scratch. I tried many different remedies without relief. The trouble lasted about three months before I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them about a week I got relief and when I had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Vada E. Masden, Verdel, Nebraska, Feb. 7, 1922.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health often when all else fails.

Carols Will Be Sung At Yule Event

Dr Earl Baker Will Lead Sing- ing At Community Christ- mas Celebration

Plans for the community Christmas tree and program are well underway. The use of the lot across from the Sherman house has been secured and the tree has been purchased for the occasion.

Dr. Earl Baker will direct the music which will consist of carol singing by groups and by the audience. Copies of the words of the carols to be sung will be printed in the Post-Crescent before the program.

It is thought the tree will be put up on Saturday evening and that the giving of candy and singing of carols will take place at that time. The tree will be lighted every evening and will remain in the square until after New Years.

Club Planning Biggest Holiday Party Of Month

FOUR TO ATTEND STATE VOCATIONAL MEETING

W. S. Ford, director, and at least three members of the vocational school board, Judson G. Rosebush, Charles Thompson and H. G. Saeker, will attend the conference of local vocational school boards to be held at Milwaukee Wednesday, Dec. 20. This decision was reached at the last regular meeting of the local board.

William Ross of Milwaukee is visiting Appleton relatives.

Girls Give Up Yule Party Plan; Fear Contagion

Because of the diphtheria cases in the schools, no Christmas party will be given by the Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls for children on Saturday at Armory G. On advice of the city physician and others, the leaders thought it advisable to postpone the party for the health interests of the children and the community. There have been several diphtheria cases reported from the schools and it was thought best to abandon the party plan.

In all probability another kind of party will be planned for the children after Christmas. The Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls are reluctant to give up the idea of the party, but because of the health training in their organizations, they are willing that it should be done.

RECREATION CLASSES CLOSE FIRST SEMESTER

The last classes of the semester in Appleton Women's club recreation department are being held this week. The new semester will begin on Jan. 2 during which most of the present classes will be continued. GREEN BAY CHOIR SINGS AT VESPER SERVICES HERE

An effective vesper service was held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in All Saints Episcopal church when the choir of Christ church of Green Bay furnished the program. The choir has only 15 voices but the music was beautifully rendered and very impressive.

W. H. Hatton of New London was an Appleton visitor Monday.

EAR-RINGS

Just the distinctive Ear-Rings that you have been looking for have arrived at the Treasure Box and the prices are not too high.

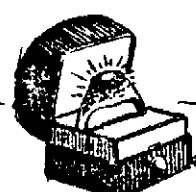

A Christmas gift from the Treasure Box has a distinction that makes it stand out from the ordinary gift. There are so many unusual little things within the price range of everyone.

A lovely assortment of the Mary Cummings necklaces which need no introduction to Appleton connoisseurs is at the Treasure Box. Do not wait until the last minute because things have been selected in small quantities so as to keep them exclusive and just the thing you want may be gone.

The Rush Is On Come Let's Go

The people are saying nice things about OUR JEWELRY DISPLAY. We expected they would, for to tell the truth, we, ourselves, are just a little proud of it. But the final test is—WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?

Whatever you may think, we KNOW this—that we have worked and planned this year with the idea of having OUR BEST—YET HOLIDAY DISPLAY, and the result of our efforts awaits your inspection.

When you call, be sure of this—What we have to show you comprises the latest thought in Jewelry Designing with special reference to Christmas needs.

And be sure of this also—Each article is priced to sell at the LOWEST figure that it can be sold for anywhere, by any store.

Please read that last sentence again. Because plenty of people think that large city stores can undersell us, but that's a mistake. Please satisfy yourself on this point.

As we said, the RUSH IS ON, but for many people there's lots of fun in mixing with the crowds, particularly with STOCKS as interesting as HYDE'S.

Come expecting to be interested and ask to see our big CHRISTMAS SPECIALS in DIAMONDS and WATCHES. We simply challenge competition on these lines in this locality.

JACK ZWICK SURE OF BUSY SEASON IN RING THIS WINTER

Kaukauna Grappler Is Wanted For Bout In Mexican Ring

Kaukauna.—J. W. Walsh of Milwaukee, manager of Jack Zwick, local welterweight boxing champion of Wisconsin, has received an offer to fight in Juarez, Mexico, across the border from El Paso, Texas, according to information received by Zwick Monday. The boxer is planning to accept the offer although he was not informed when he is to fight in the south.
 It looks as though the Kaukauna fighter will have a busy season. He has signed up to fight in a wind up at Oshkosh about January 8. His manager also informed him that he is wanted to box in a windup in the Empress theatre in Milwaukee in the near future.
 Mr. Walsh further asked Zwick to send his record in the ring since he first started in Appleton about one and one half years ago. During his short career Zwick has become known as a fighter with a terrific punch in either mitt although the scientific end of scrapping has not been developed to a great extent. He earned a reputation as a fighter who can take punishment until he sees an opening to step in and end the fight with a knockout. His last scrap with Billy Burns proved that.
 Since Jack Zwick first stepped into the ring in Appleton in April, 1921, and fought Ed Wagner, the Appleton boxer, to a draw, he has been in the ring 12 times. He scored 9 knockouts, outpointed one opponent and fought twice to a draw. Six of the 9 knockout scraps ended in the second round.
 Here is Zwick's record since the beginning of his career. Fought Wagner to a draw at Appleton, knocked out Johnson at Neenah in one minute and 21 seconds, knocked out Harry Beldi at Appleton in the second, knocked out Harry Albrecht at Manitowish in the second, knocked out Frank Lish at Appleton in the second; knocked out Red Vnuk at Green Bay in the second, knocked out Dryvsky at Green Bay in the second; knocked out Young Sanders at Oshkosh in the second, fought Jack Schoendorf to a draw at Dubuque, Ia.; knocked out Schoendorf in the fourth round at Milwaukee, outpointed Schoendorf in a return match at Milwaukee, knocked out Billy Burns in the seventh round at Milwaukee.

AUTOMOBILE PLUNGES INTO ROAD EMBANKMENT

Kaukauna.—Stanley Smith received a cut under his chin but his companion, Edwin Miller escaped injury when Smith's car plunged into an embankment near McCarty's crossing Saturday afternoon. Smith, who was driving the car, turned out to allow another machine to pass. Two wheels left the pavement and as he attempted to return to the road, the chauffeur caught on the edge of the icy pavement and then were released suddenly so that the car was thrown across the road and into the ditch. The machine was only slightly damaged.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from itching, burning and irritation.
 Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaves the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of disfigurement. A little jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

EARLY SETTLER DIES AT SEYMOUR

Robert Ruston Came To County When First Railroad Was Built

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Seymour.—Robert Ruston, 83, well known farmer of the town of Seymour, died at his home here Monday morning of senility.
 Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the residence and at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church here with the Rev. G. W. Lester in charge. Burial will be in Seymour cemetery.
 Mr. Ruston was an iron worker in England for more than 20 years and helped roll the first armor plate made for battleships. He was born at Layman, Nottinghamshire, England, June 26, 1833, and was married in 1853 to Ann Kison of Marr, Yorkshire, England, who preceded him in death several years ago.
 The decedent was the son of a sailor. He came to the United States in 1865 and settled at Oshkosh, where he spent seven years. When the first railroad line was built into this county, he moved here with his family, bringing his household effects and one cow.
 Eighty acres of wild land was purchased and a log cabin erected. He toiled hard until he had most of his farm under cultivation.
 Mr. Ruston is survived by four children, Mrs. Oscar Chamberlain, Seymour; Mrs. Marie Aplun, Minnesota; Mrs. Bessie Westlake, Puyallup, Wash.; Isabel Ruston, Seymour. 13 grandchildren; 14 great grandchildren. Four children preceded him in death.

GULBRANSEN
 Player-Piano
A Pledge
 Ranking first by a wide margin in the production of player-pianos, it is fitting that Gulbransen give a pledge to our public—
 A PLEDGE to foster the restless desire for improvement which has made possible the exceptional music of the Gulbransen.
 A PLEDGE to adhere strictly to the Golden Rule principles that have governed all our business relations; this includes our organization, the people from whom we buy — the people to whom we sell.
 A PLEDGE to continue branding the price of each Gulbransen in the back, at the factory, for the protection of our customers.
 A PLEDGE never to make a Gulbransen and send it out under any other name, thus preserving Gulbransen quality for Gulbransen buyers.
 A PLEDGE always to keep bright our ideal of providing exceptional music for all classes of homes, at modest prices.
 A PLEDGE that the ease of playing and instant control you enjoy in the Gulbransen will ever be the standard of excellence among all player-pianos.
 These principles affect the purse and the happiness of every family buying a player-piano. The phenomenal sales Gulbransen enjoys show the public's approval of the fairness, sincerity and importance of our creed.
 Christmas morning countless Gulbransens will delight families everywhere. Will your family be one of these? Play a Gulbransen at our store today—and you will understand fully these things which have brought about the broad sweep of Gulbransen popularity.

Left-Over Auction Funds Become Aid To H. S. Needy

Money left over from the high school auction after the Thanksgiving baskets were filled will be used during the year for needy students. A committee was appointed from the senior class with a faculty member at its head to take care of the disbursement of these funds during the year. The help to students will be medical attention, books and in some cases clothing.

It often happens that the efficiency of a high school student is impaired by his health and that neither he nor his parents have the funds to spend for medical attention. Recently it was found that one of the students was becoming deaf and that the cause of his deafness was diseased tonsils. His family could not have him taken care of, but the senior fund will furnish medical attention for him. The report made to the senior class showed that the amount taken in at the auction was a little more than $700, the first report of $750 having been given out before a check had been made on the money. It took $250 of this money to fill the Thanksgiving baskets. Bills for the auction, principally for the materials used in candy made at the high school amounted to $100. The remaining $250, and a sum of $125 left from last year have been established as a $375 aid fund for the students.

SUGGEST BUCK TO TAKE CHARGE OF BADGER GRIDDERS

Appleton Man Believes Either
Wilce Or Zuppke Will Be Choice

Howard P. Buck, referred to in the dispatch printed below, says he has heard nothing from Madison concerning appointment of a successor to John Richards as coach of the University of Wisconsin football team.

Buck is being mentioned as a possible successor to Richards. Mr. Buck, however, is of the opinion that an effort will be made to obtain either Wilce of Ohio or Zuppke of Illinois for the position.

MANY POSSIBILITIES
By Associated Press
Madison—The choice of a football coach to succeed John R. Richards, who resigned from the coaching staff of the University of Wisconsin because of the press of private affairs, is occupying the attention of the student body and alumni. Several names have already been brought forward with assurance that they are to be considered by the athletic council when it makes a selection.

Talk turns to Jack Wilce, head coach at Ohio State university, an old Wisconsin man who has developed winning teams for the Buckeyes. It is suggested that he might be connected with the new university hospital here, devoting his time in the fall to football.

Couch Bader, is recommending James Bader, for three years a tackle on the Badger team. Bader graduated in 1921, and has since been assistant coach.

"Cub" Buck, of Appleton, one of the Badgers' greatest tackles, is another prominently mentioned. He was offered the position at Indiana university this past season but declined.

Howard Hancock, captain of 1917 team, and a noted tackle, now coaching at Oshkosh Normal, is well up on the list of possible selections. He has been turning out strong teams at the teacher training institute, and is well known here.

The January Delineators, Butterick Patterns and the Winter Needle Art Magazines are here.—PETTIBONE'S.

"THE NUT" PACKS THEM IN
"The Nut," Douglas Fairbanks' fifth production for the United Artists, is drawing big crowds at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, where it is playing for 2 more days. The manner in which a lover gums up his courtship, because of his overzealousness, is proving one of the most popular plot foundations upon which a photoplay has yet been built.

BEG PARDON
Officials of the traction company deny one of its street cars collided with a bus as reported Monday. It is said the bus crashed into the side of the street car and if the car had not been of steel construction it is probable several passengers would have been injured.

SEND 2 DELEGATES TO STATE MEETING

The executive board of Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective Association, at its meeting in the Sherman house on Monday, elected Dr. J. A. Holmes and W. R. Wheaton as delegates to the state protective association meeting in Madison Jan. 16 and 17. The local club is entitled to ten delegates but it was decided to send only two and empower them to cast ten votes.

A joint meeting of the protective association and the Isaac Walton league will be held Jan. 15 to discuss possible consolidation of the two organizations.

PEOPLE OVER FORTY
People aged forty or over are less able to resist the attacks of colds, grippe, influenza or pneumonia than young people. Their vital force lacks the powerful resistance of youth. Constipated bowels, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness and weak kidneys all tend to lower the physical resistance. Millions of people now use Bulgarian Blood Tea to keep the bowels open and improve the blood. Bulgarian Herb Tea taken steaming hot will help break up a cold quickly. Physicians and druggists everywhere recommend it.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE

STILL GREATER REDUCTIONS ON THE ANNIVERSARY SALE PRICES FROM NOW UNTIL CHRISTMAS

We are going to make the supreme effort to dispose of every piece of heavy weight merchandise in this store during the ten shopping days left before Christmas. If quality merchandise and lowest possible prices appeal at all to the buying public then we will accomplish our aim without a struggle. Think of it people, right in the midst of the winter and just before Christmas you can buy, at this store, the best lines of wearing apparel manufactured for men, young men and boys at prices that will be a great surprise to you. Our THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE has been a whirlwind of a success. We are not compelled in any way financially or otherwise to give these greater reductions on our THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE prices, but our policy is always not to carry over merchandise from one season to another, so we can always give to the buying community new, clean merchandise every season. So you can readily see that profits at this time will be secondary. If you read these prices carefully, as carefully in fact as you would read a book of fiction that you were real interested in, not overlooking one single item there had ought to be a stampede at Appleton's Popular Priced Clothing, Shoe and Furnishing Goods Store for the next TEN DAYS. Every item listed below would make an excellent Christmas Gift.

SNOW FENCES WILL PROTECT STREETS

City Prepares To Counteract Deep Drifts On Roads This Winter

The city is entrenching itself for the winter. Although O. F. Welserger, city engineer, is not prepared to prognosticate whether the city will be buried in snow this winter, he will not take chances with strong gales and snow drifts.

In places where drifts were deep, snow fences and guards have been placed in various parts of the city, mostly at the outskirts. The location of the fences is subject to change, depending upon the removal or erection of buildings, prevailing winds, etc. About 125 fences have been placed on open streets, a thousand feet being left on hand for emergency use.

The location of the principal fences is as follows: Alvin st; north end of Oneda st; Van Smith st; north to city limits; Leminwah st, between Nawa-da st and Second ave; various places on Carver st; extreme end of Foster st, and other places; Richmond and Lafayette sts.

PATRONS ASKED TO PROTECT METERS

Freezing Of Water Recorders Causing Department Much Trouble

Frozen meters seem to be the plague that a large number of Appleton residents are afflicted with. After almost every cold night numerous complaints are telephoned to the water department with respect to frozen water pipes and meters.

A little prudence will not only prevent this occurrence but save the patrons expense, as the cost of repair is to be borne by the water consumers themselves. Fred Morris, secretary of the water commission, announced.

In homes that are unusually cold, the water pipes and meter in the basement should be wrapped with paper or cloth to prevent their freezing. A good method is to wrap paper around the pipes first and then add some old clothes. Care must be taken, however, to leave the dial of the meter exposed.

SMITH REELECTED AS PRESIDENT OF BARBERS

William Smith was reelected president of Appleton Barbers union at the annual meeting in Trades and Labor hall Monday evening. Other officers are Guy Manning vice president; John Hertle, secretary and treasurer; Perry Brown recording secretary; William Reck, guide.

The union voted to make a contribution of $5 to the Good Fellows club which is raising money to provide a merry Christmas for needy families of Appleton.

CAR SKIDS; TIPS OVER; DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY

A car belonging to T. F. Stott, 712 Appleton st, tipped over on its side in the ditch, while its owner was driving home from Brillion Monday. The accident was caused by the slippery condition of the road. Mr. Stott escaped injury, but his car was quite badly damaged.

Dry Laws Enforceable With Ease If Authorities Are True To Oath, French Says

Rural Districts, "Wet" Sympathy And Propaganda Of Liquor Interests Are Difficulties Of Prohibition Rule

Appleton district of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league has its problems of liquor law enforcement, but no more than any other district in the country, according to D. F. French, district superintendent. In Mr. French's opinion, the district has as good law enforcement as any other. He has noted a marked improvement in this territory within the last 12 months.

In point of area, the district is the largest in the state. With Appleton, the headquarters, occupying the southeast corner of the district and Marshfield at the southwest extremity, the district comprises the entire north-east quarter of the state including 15 counties. The other districts are the Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Madison and Eau Claire districts. The first mentioned is the largest in population. Mr. French has been serving as superintendent in Pennsylvania and South Dakota. When he came to Appleton five years ago, which was the year prohibition went into effect, there were between 50 and 70 saloons in the city. It was a common sight to have drunk men stagger about the city.

FEWER DRUNKARDS
"No one can question the fact," Mr. French said in answer to an inquiry by a representative of the Post-Crescent, "that public drunkenness has been greatly reduced. I emphasize that, because we are told every day that conditions are getting worse and worse. That is merely liquor propaganda."

Enforcement of the prohibition laws is not so complicated in the larger cities, such as Appleton, Green Bay, Marinette, Amnicon, Merrill, Wausau, Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids, as in the outlying districts, he declared. Appleton has fewer stills than are to be found in the country he added.

"We have some bad spots where it is particularly difficult to enforce the law," Mr. French said. "In Langlade and Forest counties we have to contend with the 'Keonuck' moonshiners operating stills in swamps, woods and other secluded spots. The violators are hard to get, and when we do get them, it is hard to secure conviction. It seems that public sentiment there is largely in favor of the moon stills."

"Law enforcement becomes a simple matter where the district attorney believes in his oath of office and where the sheriff means 'business' he continued. "And if justice can get to the point where they will impose adequate penalties, we shall make better progress."

JURIES IN SYMPATHY
Asked as to what evidence he gives the frequently repeated remark that any liquor law violator is secure after once insisting upon a trial by jury, Mr. French said that the report is partially in accordance with the facts. "Juries are very much responsive to public sentiment," he answered. "If the courtroom is packed with wet sympathizers, the chances are that the jury will acquit the defendant. If the district attorney would only back up the sheriff, the district attorney, the judge and the jury, then the jury would be responsive to the real evidence in the case."

"But, theoretical difficulty is accounted for," he continued, "when, after the sheriff arrests, the district attorney prosecutes, the jury acquits and the judge sentences, the chief executive of the state throws open the penitentiary doors to bootleggers and moonshiners, thereby encouraging further lawlessness."

Mr. French was reminded of the statement often made in court that there is a still in every other home and that every child of ten years and over knows how to make moonshine.

Just how many stills are there in Appleton, Mr. French? he was asked.

FEW STILL
Rather than answer the question, Mr. French quoted from a magazine of recent issue stating it was estimated in congress there is but one still for every 1,000,000 families in the country. Granting that there are about 25,000,000 families in the United States, there should be about 25,000 stills in the country, which is not much more than the number of families in Outagamie and Brown counties.

"The impression is created by the anti-prohibition organizations that prohibition is a failure and that moonshine is on the increase. Beer and light wine are suggested as an antidote. But the anti-prohibition organizations do not want beer and light wine any more than you and I do. That is all pure bunk, merely the entering wedge. They are laying the lines of battle for 1924. Their goal is the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. And the proof is this. If they were fighting for beer and wine, only the brewers would be interested. But the fact is that the distillers, not only of this country, but all over the world, are backing the movement with their money."

Mr. French is quite optimistic over the future of prohibition. He fails to see any wet reaction in the recent elections. He said that in the United States senate the drys have gained three. Although they lost seven in congress, yet the very best the wets can do there on a straight proposition is to muster 50 votes, he said.

TASK NOT EASY
But the work of enforcing prohibition is no easy task, he admitted. Liquor that has been in the world for thousands of years, he pointed out, cannot be thrown out in three years. The work of the Anti-Saloon league consists in waging a campaign of education by means of addresses, literature and motion pictures. While the superintendent was talking he was preparing to go to Marion to take charge of a sketch or mock debate in which the pro and con of liquor law enforcement was to be discussed.

"The Anti-Saloon league representatives besides conducting a campaign of education against liquor help to secure arrests and convictions of violators upon complaints submitted by private citizens. Many of these com-

C. OF C. OFFERING $175 IN PRIZES AT COMING CORN SHOW

Thirty Awards Will Be Made At Exhibit At Armory In January

Corn in lots of ten ears will be worth a lot of money in January providing the grower had good luck with his crop and turned out some exceptionally nice ears.

Appleton Chamber of Commerce will reward liberally those farmers who are enterprising in raising this kind of crop. The premium list in its annual contest is ready for publication and offers $50 in cash prizes and $125 in savings accounts or merchandise. There are to be 30 awards in all.

ALL MAY ENTER
Every farmer living within 30 miles of Appleton will be eligible to enter the contest, which is to be conducted in connection with the poultry show of Fox River Valley Poultry and Pet stock association at Appleton armory Jan. 24 to 28, inclusive.

There will be nine classifications, some with 10 ear samples and others with a single ear. The exact date of submitting entries will be announced later.

Cash prizes in the various groups are as follows: Best bushel sample of corn silage—first prize, $7.50 cash; second, $5 credit. Golden Dry Goods Co.; third and fourth, $3 and $2 credits, respectively. A. Galpins Sons.

Best single ear, Golden Glow yellow dent—first prize, $10 savings credit. Appleton State bank; second, $10 credit. Gloudehans-Gage company.

Best single ear Silver Kink white dent—first prize, $10 credit. Saecker, Diederich Co.; second, $5 credit. Hecker Shoe Co.

Longest ear displayed—$5 savings credit. Outagamie County bank.

WIDOW BURNS TO DEATH
By Associated Press

Escanaba, Mich.—Mrs. Laura Fredrickson, Escanaba, was burned to death Saturday night while working alongside her gas range. She was rushed to a hospital, but died before assistance could be rendered. She was a widow and leaves three children, who she had supported.

Proper dance hall regulation in the country is what is needed to facilitate prohibition law enforcement. Mr. French said, it is an easy matter to supervise Appleton dance halls, but it is a terrible task to guard the morals of country dance halls, he declared. If country boards will not regulate dance halls, it becomes the duty of the state legislature to do so, Mr. French said.

Hurry The Toys

Boy Scouts Want Damaged Playthings at Once so They will Be Ready for Christmas Baskets to the Less Fortunate When Delivery Is Made.

Anything that ever has been classed as a toy, whether it be legless, shabby or slightly smashed is wanted by the boy scouts so that reconstructed toys may be provided in the Christmas baskets this year. The different troops in the city have agreed to be Santa Claus' helpers again this year and fix up all toys which people can give.

If a doll has lost an arm or two, a eye or so, one leg or both, she is not entirely gone, because her good parts may be used on another doll whose parts are not so good. The boys can do marvels with the damaged toys and when all are repaired they will make some kiddies' hearts glad.

People who have toys are asked to send them to the nearest schoolhouse where the boys will work on them after school. If a schoolhouse is not convenient, the toys may be taken to the Red Cross office or the boy scout office. The sooner the toys are delivered to the boys, the better the job they can do on them.

WIDOW BURNS TO DEATH
By Associated Press

Escanaba, Mich.—Mrs. Laura Fredrickson, Escanaba, was burned to death Saturday night while working alongside her gas range. She was rushed to a hospital, but died before assistance could be rendered. She was a widow and leaves three children, who she had supported.

Proper dance hall regulation in the country is what is needed to facilitate prohibition law enforcement. Mr. French said, it is an easy matter to supervise Appleton dance halls, but it is a terrible task to guard the morals of country dance halls, he declared. If country boards will not regulate dance halls, it becomes the duty of the state legislature to do so, Mr. French said.

Don't Forget
Your Own Youth
At ChristmasBY MRS. SOPHIA E. DELAVAN
COWLES

Buy your child what he wants if he wants it within reason and the desired toy is not destructive of character or property and has reasonable good stored away within it.

Hearken back to your own youth! Weren't you terribly put out when old Santa brought you a beautiful top that sang as it spun, when what you really wanted was a sled, an air rifle or a dolly?

REMEMBER CHILD'S TASTES
Parents should be guided by the child's tastes in selecting Christmas toys, because nine times out of ten the child knows what he wants to play with better than the adult possibly can know.

Of course, the parent should lend suggestions. But don't rub your superior ego in on the wishes of that boy or girl when you take the Santa list down to fill.

YOU'LL BE SORRY
If you buy a colored cushion for Mary when she expressed a preference for a knitting set, or a riga-ma-jig baseball game for Harry instead of the railroad train he asked for—just because, down underneath it all, you have a sneaking idea that maybe you'd like to rest your own head on the cushion or play the baseball game yourself—you'll be sorry.

Mary and Harry will pretend to be pleased, but don't you see that by making them pretend, you're making hypocrites out of them—and ruining their whole day as well?

DON'T BE EXTRAVAGANT
Buy presents within your means. If necessary, make substitutes for what your children want.
But make wise substitutes carrying with them the same sort of spirit as expressed in the original request, for the child knows what he wants far better than perhaps you think you know.

Adventures Of
The Twins

Twins Become Rabbits

"What goes up must come down!" Sometimes!

When a sky-rocket goes up in the sky and doesn't come down, but the stick it rides on does.

When Nancy and Nick saw a stick lying on the ground they thought it was the Fairy Queen's wand she had lost and they grabbed it but it was only the sky-rocket stick.

But Flap-Doodle, the mischievous fairy, who was following them, knew better.

He saw the heel wand lying under a stalk of golden-rod and quick as a wink he reached for it and got it. Then flapping his ears he flew to the top of a mulberry-tree and grinned down at the Twins who were too surprised to move.

"Dearie me on us! What have we done?" cried Nancy.

Nick tossed away the sky-rocket stick with a disgusted look.

"We made a mistake and picked up an old piece of wood," he announced. "And that old Flap-Doodle has got it again. The Fairy Queen won't send us on any more errands if we are so stupid. She'll wonder what's keeping us so long, too!"

Nancy looked up at the tree where Flap-Doodle sat grinning at them in the silliest fashion.

"Well, anyway," she sighed, "it's a good thing we—"

Suddenly she stopped.

"Oh! Oh! What's wrong? I feel so queer! And, Nickie, you look so funny. Your ears are a mile long."

Flap-Doodle had changed Nancy and Nick into two white rabbits with just one wave of the magic wand!

DRESS HINTS

SLEEVES

No sleeves at all for evening gowns, long sleeves at other times, continues to tell the tale of the sleeve. Many evening gowns show no shoulder bare and the other covered.

CERTAIN PULLS

Yarn may be twisted and tied to make any curtain pulls for the kitchen, nursery or living room. The yarn may take the form of chic French dolls, birds or pudgy animals.

LINGERIE PINS

The women who crochet will find that dainty lingerie clasps may be made by covering the small gold safety pins with a little flower pattern of some sort. Bits of ribbon may be utilized in the same way.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Under the ancient rulers' regime, no member of a Japanese family might wear silk.

If a farmer's daughter married a man entitled to apparel himself thus, he was requested not to do so at the wedding.

But three kinds of viands were to be served at a wedding, the quantity as well as quality being regulated by law.

SKILL MAKES "HELEN" A REAL BEAUTY

"HELEN" (LEFT) BEFORE SHE HAD UNDERGONE THE BEAUTY-GIVING MEASURES ADVOCATED IN THE POST-CRESCENT'S BEAUTY SERIES AND (RIGHT) AFTER SHE HAD APPLIED THESE PRINCIPLES.

(This is the first of a series of six practical articles on beauty by Elsie Waterbury Morris, wife of Governor Morris.)

BY ELSIE WATERBURY MORRIS
The first time I saw Helen she looked as she does in the photograph on the left. It seemed almost impossible she could be transformed into the girl you see at the right.

Though obviously young, she had allowed herself to become old and tired looking through neglect. She drooped mentally as well as physically. Her physical appearance was largely the outward manifestation of a mind that had become stagnant and a brain that had relaxed.

When she said, "Can you do anything for me?" I noticed that her voice was as lifeless and dull as her personality.

When I questioned her, I found she had no enthusiasm and none of the natural exuberance of youth. She had tried to work but had never been successful in keeping any job and she did not believe she ever would be. She had no confidence in herself and could not inspire it in others.

HER DIAGNOSIS

She was so dejected I couldn't help being interested in her. I told her I could do nothing for her, however, until she did something for herself.

She must develop an interest in life and must take a kindly interest in others.

She must learn to smile, to care scientifically for her complexion and to stand and sit properly and must exercise every day and follow out the diet schedule I laid out for her.

She promised to do everything I asked. So we called in Mrs. Buhl, our expert diagnostician, and tabulated her chief defects.

her skin was dry and rough—evidently she used soap that was entirely wrong for it. Her hair was dry and lustreless, though it was thick and fairly even.

Under her eyes were dark circles, and wrinkles were starting. The muscles about her eyes sagged and she had developed a double chin from bad habits of drooping her head. Her shoulders were rounded and her neck had hollows from bad posture.

CLEANSING THE FACE
First I showed her how to cleanse her face properly. She had a dry skin that should have been cleansed with cleansing cream always, never with soap.

We applied cleansing cream generously with a pad of wet absorbent cotton, cleansing upward from the neck to the forehead. This is so important in all work on the face to counteract the tendency to sagging.

Then we used a skin food that would nourish the skin and build up the tissues. We showed her how to mold on the particular muscles which needed attention and worked about her eyes with a gentle, molding motion to relax the nerves and build up the tissues and prevent further wrinkles.

Then we used an astringent cream on the chin and nose and the cheeks to contract the pores which had become enlarged and coarsened.

NECK AND SHOULDERS
Finally we worked on her neck and shoulders, showing her how to massage them. Finally we went over her face with a piece of ice wrapped in a cloth. This brought a flush to her face and when Helen looked in the glass she actually had color.

Then we had a hairdresser show her how to brush her hair to bring back life and lustre to it, and arrange it more becomingly, so she could actually see how much improvement had been made in just one treatment. Then had made in just one treatment. Then and there she gained confidence in us and believed we could help her. I saw she had made one step forward in her progress.

Next we took up the matter of poise which I will explain in the next installment.

FIFTEEN WASTE MOTIONS
"The New England housewife in her ample kitchen," she states, "employs 22 motions in making a cup of tea; the New York woman in her little kitchenette, seven."

"Not until she adopts a schedule allowing just so much time to each task, from the time she rises until the end of the day, can the housewife be assured of certain definite hours for leisure and relaxation."

Save Time By Saving Steps In Kitchen
Standardize the home! Elizabeth Hallam Bohn, consultant in home economics, hopes thus to rally the legion of discouraged housewives who never can find time for an afternoon of bridge or a session at the elvish uplift club.

Miss Bohn would begin with prunes.

"There are 40 or 50 different kinds," she says, "and yet the average housewife says to the grocer, 'Send me a pound of prunes.'"

MATTER OF PRUNES
"A much better way would be to inform herself what brand is best for the money and stock up when the price is low."

"Prunes are but typical. The housewife can follow the same procedure with practically every other article on her table."

London—A record railway run in England is described in a document kept secret for nearly 20 years, but now published in the Great Western Railway magazine.

On May 9, 1904, one of the Great Western boat specials from Plymouth to London attained an overall speed, exclusive of stops, of over 66 miles an hour, and at times during the journey exceeded 103 miles and hour.

The speed was officially recorded, but the company, for some reason not given, decided not to announce the accomplishment.

Secret Of Keeping Your Furniture New

The great secret in the care of furniture is to keep it well dusted. Dust, besides containing a number of unpleasant things, as the people who look through microscopes are so ready to tell us, has in it tiny particles of rock, and these tend to scratch polished surfaces by merely being blown over them. Hence the importance of careful, light-handed dusting—gathering up the offending atoms in the duster and shaking these latter out of the window from time to time. For carved parts a soft furniture brush should be used. Needless to say, when cleaning upholstered furniture the upholstery should be beaten and brushed—if possible out of doors—before the woodwork is dusted.

Sometimes ink stains need to be treated on an old bureau or chest, it is best to rub them gently with a little diluted salts of lemon, washing it off as soon as possible and drying the part quickly. White stains due to placing hot plates or wet vases on an wood can usually be removed by one application of spirits of camphor, while scratched or defaced parts may often be restored by rubbing with camphorated oil.

MAY NEED WASHING

If furniture is very dirty and finger-marked it should be carefully washed before polishing. Old oak should be cleaned with turpentine, while mahogany may be washed satisfactorily with vinegar and water or cold tea. Rosewood is washed with cold water and a chamois leather; afterwards it is sufficient to dry it with a linen cloth and polish it with a silk duster—no furniture polish being required.

Furniture with a very heavy polish may be sponged with methylated spirits (one tablespoon to the pint), and afterward dried and merely polished with a leather.

To proceed with the actual polishing of furniture, old oak is best treated with beeswax and turpentine. To make this mixture, shred some beeswax finely, put it into an earthen jar and cover it with turpentine. Stand the jar in a saucepan containing water and leave over gentle heat, stirring until the wax is melted; add more turpentine if required, so as to obtain the consistency of thick cream. Apply with a linen pad to the oak and rub very thoroughly with soft dusters.

Furniture cream for polishing light wood, such as maple or satin wood, is made as follows: Shred one ounce of white wax, one ounce of beeswax and one ounce of castile soap finely into a stoneware jar, covering them with turpentine. Stand the jar in water on the stove till the waxes and soap are melted, then pour on three-fourths of a pint of boiling water, stirring all the time; when slightly cool pour the cream into a wide-mouthed labeled bottle. Cork down when cold.

Apply to the wood with a rag and polish with soft dusters till free from grease and stickiness, first rubbing.

round and round and then in the direction of the grain, that is, the way the tree grows. It is a mistake to be too lavish with the cream, as not only is this extravagant, but the mixture gets into the crevices, and is thus difficult to remove.

For dark wood, such as mahogany or walnut, an efficacious liquid polish may be made very simply by pouring through a funnel into a bottle a gill each of vinegar and methylated spirits and a half pint each of turpentine and linseed oil.

The first three ingredients are cleansing agents, while the last one nourishes the wood.

Be sure the bottle is labeled and well corked, and shake it every time before use, for the oil rises to the surface. Kansas City Star.

PRESIDENT OBREGON OF MEXICO LIKES TO TRAVEL

Mexico City—President Obregon is not a stay-at-home. Contrary to the custom of his predecessor, President Carranza, who scarcely ever left the capital, the present executive travels extensively and during his administration he has "gone visiting" on an average of once a month. He never journeys more than a day's ride from Mexico City, but there is never a day of fiesta in any of the towns within that radius that is not attended by the president. His private car is stocked for travel at all times and, according to his aides, they are always prepared to go on a jaunt.

The president is planning to take a swing through northern Mexico, going first to Tampico, and then through Nuevo Leon, Coahuila and Chihuahua to his native state, Sonora, where he will spend the Christmas holidays.

Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

© 1922 NEA Service Inc

He lifted himself in the chair with the strength of his hands on the broad armrests. And I realized more fully what a physical wreck he was—the lower part of his body was motionless.

"I want to tell you about this thing," he said. "And then you can go ahead with your warrant."

"I fear," I replied, "that a somewhat higher authority has got in before your King's writ."

He chuckled as though the deadly fact were a sort of pleasantry.

"Sure," he said. "The big Judge has beat you to it."

He looked out a moment, at the woolly Highland cattle in the distant meadow, at the age-old beech-trees and the dark, swift, silent water, and then the upper part of his big body settled in the chair.

"I thought it was a sick trick, but maybe it was God Almighty. Anyway when the thing was pulled off I slid up to Bar Harbor and set down in a hotel. I figured it out like this—you look for a crook in the places that crooks go, and you look for a gentleman in the places where gentlemen go. I'll search it."

"I got me some quiet clothes," I lowered a little to show that I wasn't golf fit and I didn't talk. I just sat about with the New York Times and the Financial Register and let the days pass. When there was nothing in the hotel I was there in my all-right evening clothes, in a chair against the wall, and I limped along the sea-path in the afternoon for a little exercise.

"I looked some bored to keep the proper form. But I wasn't bored. I was seeing something new and I was getting more light on it all the time."

"I was seeing that this bunch was living up to a standard that nearly all the people I'd ever seen were only pretending. That was the difference. I soon figured it out."

He flung up his hand in a curious expressive gesture.

"I'm a crook, keep that in your head, and the thing was like a theater to me. I began to watch the actors, then I saw her and Westridge."

He moved in his chair.

"She was there with an old, faded grandmother that read novels and smoked cigars—and was a lady. And right there is where this bunch has got the goods. They don't let down because they do some things that would make you cross your fingers on the other side."

He leaned back in the chair.

"Well, I got to watching her and your Englishman. I watched them dancing in the hotel, and riding, and playing tennis at the casino—I'd never seen any people like them."

"And pretty soon I got onto something: this Westridge gentleman was trying to buy the girl, but he didn't want to pay for her. He was putting out the bait, but he had a string on it."

"I got on to his dope."

"If he could dazzle her into marrying him she'd get her board and clothes. The real thing that was next to his hide was his money. 'All for me,' that was the notion."

He went on with no break in his words.

"I got to thinking about it. This little Westridge was forty; he'd never changed; and the girl was at the age when the things he was dangle were all mixed up with moonshine. He might win, and if he did she was headed for hell."

"I saw it all clean out to the end."

He moved in the chair.

"I used to set about, and look at her, and it made me cold all over. The devil was on the job right here just as he was in the Tenderloin. He was working on a higher-class line, but it was only a different sort of road to his same old hell."

"It would be a heavenly angel flung to a wolf no matter how you dressed the situation up; and I said to myself, 'You can't beat him. The devil's got a set of traps for any kind of layout.'"

CHAPTER II

The invalid criminal lifted himself on his great hands and turned the whole of his body toward me.

"I tell you," he strook the arms of the chair in his great hands, "the thing began to get my goat. Her father, a lawyer in the South, was dead. She had only the old Boston grandmother (I heard the talk among the women) and the coin was getting scarce. Your little Englishman played in form, every point correct, and he was going to get her."

"I seen it!"

His voice became cold, level, even like a metallic click.

"Now, my little gentleman," I said to myself, "we'll just see if you do. Right here is where 'Alibi Al' sets in with a stack of blues."

"I got up, folded my newspaper, and took a turn up and down the veranda, as though I was trying out my game leg, and then I limped down to the fashionable church just across from the library."

"I stepped up inside the door."

He paused, and his voice changed to its former note.

"You see I had to have a little help on this job. It had a big loose end."

"I went in and sat down in a pew. It was dim and quiet and I got right down to business. I didn't run in any of the prayerbook curtain-raisers. I put the thing right up to the boss."

"Now, look here, Governor," I said, "has a helpless little girl got a pull with you, or is it bunk? Because I'm again to call you, and if the line your harkers are putting out is on the level, you've got to come across with the goods. If there's nothing to it, the Governor ought to shut 'em up on a fraud order—I'm again to carry one end of this thing, get 'em out of the other end."

"Then I went out."

"That night I went over to see little Westridge."

"He was surprised to see me; didn't understand it; he'd never met me in the social line."

"He was mighty formal, as you'd say, but he didn't throw any stuttering into Alibi Al. I set down, just as if the place belonged to me and I waved a hand at him. I said to myself, 'You're little piker; line up and take what's coming to you.'"

"But what I said out loud was like this:

"'Carrots has got a little bunch of stuff that's gone to be wiped out if it ain't covered.'

"That was her nickname among the youngsters, because her blue black hair in the sun had a heavenly copper glint."

"He looked mixed up. 'What, precisely, do you mean?' he says."

"I didn't pay any attention to him. I went on just as if he hadn't said a word."

"Women's got to sense about business—she's again to lose it."

"Lose what?" he says.

"'Rotten the way they bring girls up,' I says, 'the same as if he hadn't spoke. 'Here's this street bunch, beating the staff down, her broker wires for something to cover it, and she sticks the telegram up against the looking-glass so she'll remember to write to him next week—can you beat it?'

"I saw everything that was going through him, same as if you'd rolled it out on the picture-reel."

"The old friend, no manner, darn the difference! stuff, had looked him. And there were two other hooks: this girl had some property that he didn't know of, and the friends of the family, like me, was a-coming to him about it."

"He set up now pleasant as you please."

"Ah—er, yes," he says; he hadn't got the name I was playing under."

"I belovved at him, and he mighty near jumped."

"Johnson," I said, "Alonso Johnson, Kansas City."

"Quite so, Mr. Johnson," he says, quick, same as you'd apologize, 'there's some business affair to discuss, I faunty'."

"He fell right in with the line of dope mighty easy and comfortable. You see it was something like the way they do things up in his country. The old uncle, or the family lawyer calls on you, when ma thinks that things are pretty well understood with the young people, and sets down to figure."

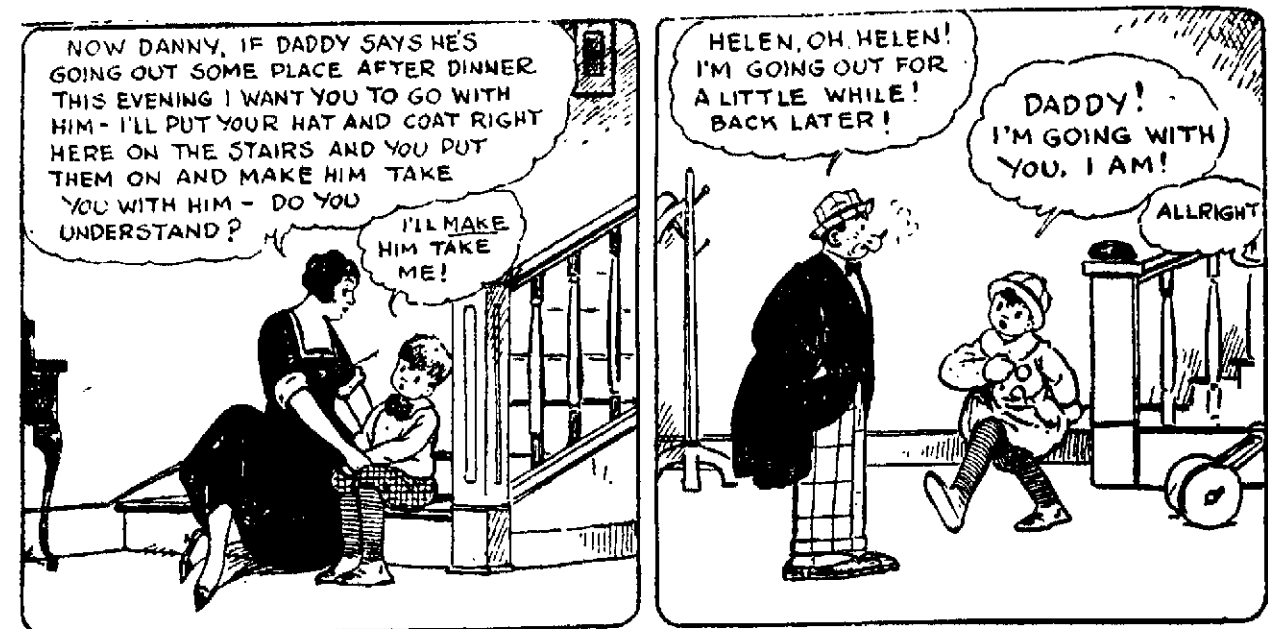

"It was clean enough to my line to go across near him. He knew that the girl hadn't got any money, so an old friend of the family would fit the form as a sort of next-of-kin, as the law-books say."

The big man linked his fingers together on the chair-arm.

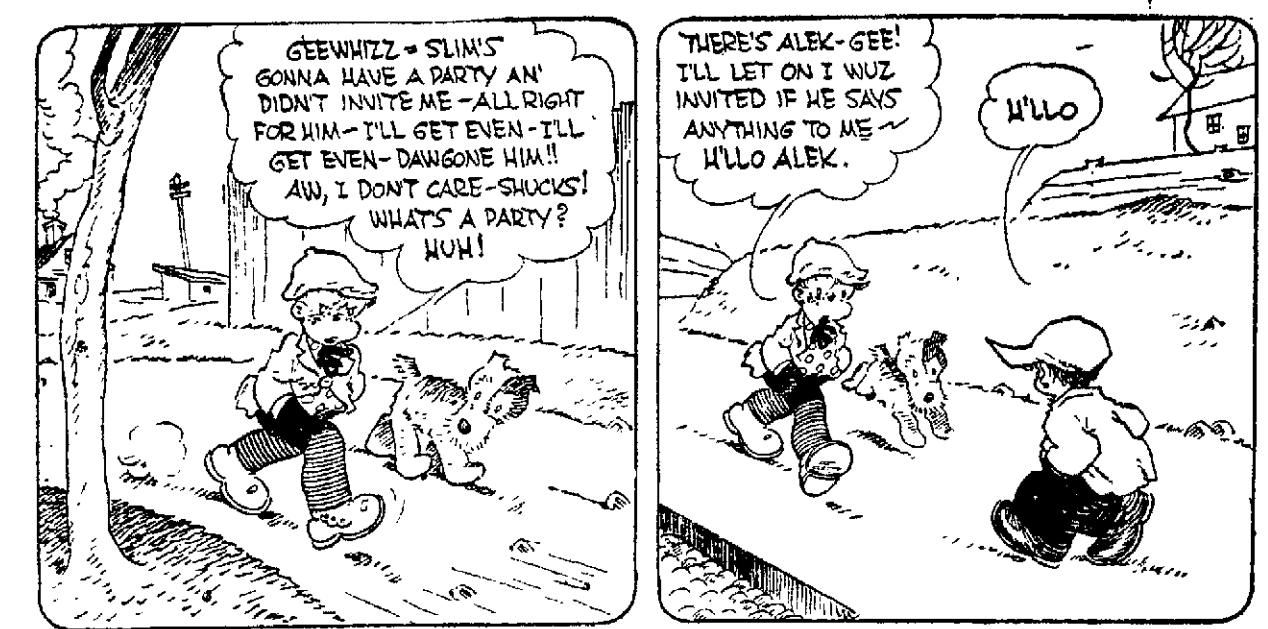

"As I was sayin', he walked right in and made himself at home with the notion. He called her 'Carrots' straight back at me; it was, 'Kiss her pap; she's our'n now; and he begun to grin."

WEIGLE'S ILLNESS PREVENTED SPEECH AT C. OF C. DINNER

Bradford And Ingler Take St. Paul Man's Place On Forum Program

More than 100 persons who attended the chamber of commerce forum banquet in the Sherman house Monday evening were disappointed in not being able to hear Dan E. Weigle of St. Paul, Minn. The speaker was taken ill at St. Paul and was removed to a hospital Monday morning according to a telegram received here Monday afternoon.

Attorney J. S. Bradford and Prof. E. M. Ingler of Lawrence college gave talks in place of the one scheduled for Dan E. Weigle. The speaker of the evening was led by W. S. Ford and the Rev. F. L. Schreckenbach gave the invocation.

City officials and members of the planning commission were guests of the chamber at the dinner in order to see the motion picture on zoning entitled, "Growing Pains." The machine supplied by a Ford Oil Lac company was disabled and only a small portion of the picture was shown.

MANY VISITORS
Two cities sent delegations to the banquet. The New London visitors were E. N. Caley, U. L. Zauz, the Rev. William H. Zeller, M. W. Knapstein, F. A. Jennings, and H. R. Cist. Those from Neenah were E. E. Janney, F. C. Durban, L. J. Pinkerton, T. E. Sande, E. F. Meyer, H. C. Hill and E. A. Ribbes.

Mr. Bradford in his talk gave an explanation of the general idea of zoning and of its application in Appleton. He told the advantages of regulation in building. He then showed how the city planning commission does its work in cooperation with the city planner. He told how Appleton had arrived at its proposed zoning restrictions. Stress was laid upon the aim of the commission to be fair to everybody in drafting of the zoning ordinance. Mr. Bradford showed how this principle was applied in alterations of the original zone plans here by firms which it would affect. Changes were made in favor of the firm in each instance, he said, because the situations were such reasonable ones.

NEED COOPERATION
Prof. Ingler's topic was "How to Sell a City." He said cooperation within the city and within the rural areas was the first essential, and the two then should begin to cooperate with each other.

Problems of the city man and the farmer were discussed. The speaker traced the changes among the merchants from the day when each tried to put the other out of business to the present time when the retailers cooperate and advertise together to develop business for all from the neighboring territory. Competition in service has taken the place of competition in price, he declared.

Farmers are coming to be recognized as business men just as the merchant is, Prof. Ingler remarked. They realize this themselves, and deal with the banks, for instance, as any other business man would instead of approaching the banker with timidity.

MUST FIND MARKET
Accomplishments of several cities in building up a huge trade from the farming community were reviewed by the speaker. The success of the biggest trade was the finding of a market by the city man for the farmer's produce. Some stores have built a business running into millions in a small community because they offered to buy everything the farmer would bring to town from a litter of pups to a load of hay.

Readjustment as it is occurring now will not accomplish its purpose, said Prof. Ingler, because all groups are going to congress and the legislature seeking laws to remedy their situation. None respects the other's situation, or the bearing of his demands on others, and this working at cross purposes cannot result in much good, he says.

BAR MEMBERS DISCUSS INCOME TAX PROBLEMS

Outagamie County Bar association held its monthly luncheon in the Venetian room of the Sherman house Monday noon. A general discussion of corporations and individual income tax followed. The annual meeting of the association will be held Jan. 13, at which time officers will be elected.

Meet Tonight
The Young Married People group of the First Methodist church will meet at 7:45 Tuesday evening in the church parlors.

FAILURE TO CALL DOCTOR RESULTS IN CHILD'S DEATH

Diphtheria Claims Another Victim—Health Officer In Warning

Another fatality from diphtheria occurred Monday because parents of the patient refused to call a doctor when the child was ill, Dr. C. W. Felton, city health officer announced Tuesday. It was not known that the case was diphtheria until the health officer was called in to sign the death certificate. Brothers and sisters of the dead child were attending school while the child was ill at home.

Dr. Felton again urged parents to at least keep their children at home when there are indications of illness if they do not call a doctor. Of course he is urging prompt medical attendance in a case of illness but there are parents here who refuse to call in a physician because they fear the home will be quarantined. The gravest danger, aside from the possible death of the patient, is spread of the contagion by other members of the family who are permitted to be at large.

School teachers are asking that schools be closed because of the danger of contagion to their charges. Dr. Felton said. This danger would be eliminated if parents of children who are ill keep all their youngsters at home and call a doctor at once.

No new cases of the disease were reported today, Dr. Felton said.

"Wild Man Of Borneo" Is Subject For Talk Next Sunday Night

Dr. John Denyas will be the forum speaker at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Sunday evening and his subject will be "The Wild Man of Borneo." Appleton people who were in the summer colony at Epworth Heights at Ludington, Mich., during the summer heard Dr. Denyas give his address, which is perhaps the most entertaining of a long list of subjects on which he lectures.

The lecture program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and a musical program will begin at 7:30. There will be no forum program between Dec. 17 and Jan. 7.

ALDERMAN LAABS IS NEAR ACCIDENT WITH BIG TRUCK

While returning from Hortonville Monday, Alderman A. W. Laabs narrowly escaped having his automobile struck by a heavy motor truck loaded with apples, and belonging to a Milwaukee wholesale fruit company. The truck was descending the hill just outside of the village and turned around twice before it went into the ditch. In making the second turn it came within a few inches of the alderman's car. The load had to be removed before the truck could be gotten back on the highway.

TWO MINOR FIRES CALL OUT LOCAL DEPARTMENT

Two minor fires occurred within the last 24 hours. The first was an overheated smoke pipe in the home of Mrs. Alma Huss, 923 Oneida-st., Monday evening. The other was a chimney fire in the home occupied by Arthur McGill at 1155 Lorain-st. Tuesday morning. Although the fire department was summoned in both instances, no fire extinguisher was needed.

All Wisconsin Is Invited to Milwaukee Dec. 14 to 20

This advertisement is published in all of the forty-six daily papers of Wisconsin. It is The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company's cordial invitation to all Wisconsin folks, and especially to our thousands of investors throughout the state, to attend the great Wisconsin Products Exposition which will be held in the Milwaukee Auditorium, Dec. 14 to 20.

Wisconsin produces a greater variety of crops than any other state except California, and they will all be represented at their best in this Exposition. Wisconsin is one of the foremost manufacturing states, and her factory products will be exhibited in amazing variety. Interesting and profitable knowledge is to be gained at the Exposition by even the best informed residents of the state.

We want you all to know Milwaukee—the cleanest, saltiest, safest, most law-abiding and best-governed large city in America. We want our Wisconsin shareholders and other investors to become acquainted with the great property and business in which they have invested. It is the largest electric service company in Wisconsin and one of the strongest in the United States.

Financing its growth here at home, with the State's approval, Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. is now selling, direct to investors, the last half of $3,000,000 issue of its 7% cumulative preferred shares, at $100 each. Whether you pay all cash, or buy them on monthly payments of $5 or more per share, you get 7% on every dollar invested from the day you put it into this company. The company has paid preferred share dividends regularly every three months for twenty-three years. It has paid common share dividends averaging 8% yearly every year for twenty-one years. Your investment in cumulative preferred shares now on sale will bring you a cash dividend of $1.75 per share on March 1, June 1, September 1 and Dec. 1, every year. The shares are preferred both as to dividends and assets. Each share has a first claim on more than $20 of State-regulated income-producing property, over and above all debts. Our Securities Department maintains an open market for the shares, in which they are readily salable in case of need.

If you have idle money, or if you wish to get 7% interest on your current savings, come in and talk this over with us. Mail orders filled promptly by registered letter.

CAPITAL MEETING MAY STIMULATE CO-OP MARKETS

Leaders Of Farm Marketing Movements Will Consider
Situation

Washington — Cooperation among cooperatives

That is the aim of a conference to be held here Dec. 14-16 by representatives of national cooperative marketing associations. Out of it is expected to come a new impetus to cooperative marketing among farmers.

The leaders of the cooperation movement are getting together in a national effort to work out means for its growth, says Charles M. Morgan, field representative of the American Cotton Growers Exchange, who as secretary of the conference is in charge of arrangements.

Particular attention will be given the subject of credit legislation.

Cooperative marketing has been spreading at an amazing rate.

GROWTH OF MOVEMENT
Two years ago there were no large co-ops in operation. This year the total co-operatives will probably be at least two-thirds of the American crop.

There were not so many co-operatives two years ago. This year 16 state organizations and the national co-lead organization, the American Cotton Growers Exchange, are operating.
Three more state organizations are being organized, and a tremendous volume of business is being handled.

Within a dozen states where cooperatives and their overhead sales agencies are successfully functioning where a few years ago there were none.

All these in addition to all sorts of cooperatives for the marketing of other farm products.

BENEFITS ALL
Not only is the producer benefited by better prices, but the consumer also. This has been proved by the fact that the cost of many of the products has been reduced and the quality improved.

One big weakness in the cooperative movement is the fact that it has no unified policy. This is the reason that it has no lobby in Congress and no voice in the national legislature. That is why the cooperative Council to be organized at Washington conference will study

JOINT DELIVERY PROVES SUCCESS IN MICHIGAN

J. H. Shasky, superintendent of the city home is familiar with the cooperative system of delivery under consideration by local grocers and said it has proven a success at Battle Creek, Mich., where he formerly was located and where it has been in effect for 15 years.

He said in that city two deliveries are made daily, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon and that the orders are collected and taken to a central distribution station where they are routed for their respective districts.

The purchaser pays the grocer for the delivery which amount he saves if he decides to carry his purchase home. The cost of delivery is always less convenient but he said it is surprising the number of people that carry their purchases home with them avoiding the additional expense.

This is a really worth while picture and despite the fact that it will be at the Elite theatre for 3 more days do not wait too long before going to see it.

MAJESTIC

Human hearts are the same all over the world and the story of a picture which depicts emotions that are common to all is destined to have a universal appeal no matter in what country or civilization it is shown. Such a picture is promised in "Human Hearts" which is the picture of the volume of short stories written by Annie V. Zerk, which comes to the Majestic theatre for 3 days starting today. The dramatic and artistic qualities that make Miss Zerk's short stories have been put into the picture—the author is at the picture—the author is at the picture.
The picture also has the same heart appeal and the same human interest.

The story of this picture, which crossed the ocean to New York in search of a big audience, is a story of deeds which are the story of a boy who is a boy and a girl who is a girl.
The story is told in a way that is most dramatic and is a story of the struggle of human and comedy with the same heart and the same human interest.
